Ocean Mail Transportation—The Mesilla Valley Treaty—Annuities to Indians, &c.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, April 15.

The bill introduced into the Senate by Mr. RUSK authorizing the Secretary of the Navy to enter into a contract with Messrs. VANDERBILT & LIVINGSTON for the conveyance of mails between Southampton and New-York, or such other ports of the United States as the public service may require, in steamers suitable for defensive purposes, and which the Government may at any time employ on payment of a reasonable sum of money. The length of time to which the contract may extend without renewal is not to exceed six years, and the compensation for carrying the mails is, not to be more than that paid by the English Government to the Cunard line.

The President has transmitted to the Senate a voluminous document relative to the payment of the three millions under the Mesilla Valley Treaty. The report confirms the statements heretofore unofficially published on the subject, and says that Messrs. HOWLAND & ASPINWALL received three several sums, amounting to two and a quarter millions, and Messrs. HARGOUS DEVEREUX the remainder on the 7th of February.

The Senate to-day ratified two treaties concerning annuities to Indian tribes in New York and Michigan, besides confirming many Executive appointments, including some in the Marine Corps.

About twenty western delegates to the Cincinnati Democratic Convention, have arrived here for political purposes.

XXXIVth CONGRESS—First Session.

SENATE....WASHINGTON, Tuesday, April 15.

OCEAN MAIL TRANSPORTATION.

Mr. RUSK, from the Post-Office Committee, to which was referred the memorials of Messrs. VANDERBILT and LIVINGSTON, reported a bill to encourage new steam navigation lines to provide for the transportation of mails by sea, and for other purposes.

THE KANSAS DEBATE RESUMED.

In consequence of the illness of Mr. CLAY, who had the right to the floor on the bill to admit Kansas as a State, the subject was postponed, and the Senate went into Executive session.

Adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, April 15.

CLAIM OF A COLORED VOLUNTEER ALLOWED.

The House passed the Senate bill authorizing payment to JACOB DODGE for services as a volunteer from California in the Mexican war. Being a colored man, and the law not permitting him to enter the army, this special act is necessary for his relief.

PAYMENT FOR CHARGERS LOST IN WAR.

The bill amendatory of the act of 1849 regarding the payment for horses and other property lost in the military service of the United States, was passed. The bill is intended to facilitate the means of obtaining proof in such cases.

APPROPRIATION FOR THE WASHINGTON AQUEDUCT REFUSED.

The deficiency appropriation bill under consideration, the House rejected the Senate's amendment appropriating $600,000 for continuing the Washington aqueduct, and without final action on the bill, adjourned.

Col. Lane's Memorial in Relation to Kansas—Debate in the Senate.

Special Correspondence of the N. Y. Daily Times.

WASHINGTON, Monday, April 14, 1856.

The debate in the Senate to-day was of surpassing interest. It occurred, as you know already, upon the presentation of a memorial and affidavit from Col. LANE, setting forth the circumstances under which the memorial of the Provisional Legislature of Kansas, presented last week by General CASS, was gotten up, and disproving the charges of fraud and forgery so glibly preferred by various Senators, in order to relieve themselves of the responsibility of denying the right of respectful petition. Mr. HAMLIN presented Col. LANE's statement this morning, accompanying it with some forcible remarks, and suggesting, among other things, that no one thought of doubting the authenticity of the Bible because he did not read it in the original parchment sheets which came from the hands of the Prophets, Patriarchs and Evangelists. He maintained, also, that the name of any man attached, to a memorial, having been put there by the authority of the party whose name is thus signed, is as sufficient as though in the handwriting of the memorialist.

After the debate had proceeded at great length, Mr. HALE brought the Senate back to the real question at issue. He reminded Senators that Colonel LANE was last week bitterly denounced on that floor as a forger—as a person so base that nobody could be found to defend him. To-day he comes forward with a full, free and candid explanation of all the facts, to show that he is not the base creature he has been represented, but that he is a gentleman worthy of respect and confidence. He asks the Senate to receive this explanation—this memorial—to examine it, and see whether or no it is satisfactory; and the Senate refuse to look at it—refuse to inform themselves whether their censures of last week are just or otherwise. This was the whole of it.

Mr. DOUGLAS here changed the issue again, or raised a new one, charging those who sent the State Constitution of Kansas to the Senate with having suppressed that provision of it indorsed by the people in a separate vote, which absolutely excludes free negroes from the State.

Mr. SEWARD interposing, explained that this provision was not a part of the Constitution, and that the vote taken upon the provision named was merely an expression of sentiment to be regarded by the first succeeding Legislature of the State as instructions for their guidance.

Mr. DOUGLAS refused so to consider it, but insisted that this prohibitory clause was made a part of the Constitution of Kansas by the vote of the people, adopting it at the same election in which the Constitution was adopted; and starting upon this assumption, he charged the friends of Free Kansas with fraud in suppressing the clause in question.

Mr. WADE here warmed up and replied with much acrimony and point. He denied that the prohibitory clause had been made part of the Constitution of Kansas. The Senator from Illinois had demanded the proofs of this negative proposition; but Mr. WADE insisted that the burden of proof rested with the Senator himself, who had made the affirmative proposition, and he would ask him, "Where are your proofs, Sir?"

Mr. DOUGLAS replied that he had been told that the provision in question had been adopted by the people of Kansas as part of her Constitution, by Messrs. REDFIELD, WHITFIELD and LANE; and furthermore neither the Senator from New-York (Mr. SEWARD) nor the Senator from Ohio (Mr. WADE) denied it.

Mr. WADE—This is rather loose evidence, Mr. President, upon which to tell us what a Constitution contains. It is nothing but the simple irresponsible statements of various gentlemen—witnesses whom Mr. DOUGLAS himself stands ready to impeach.

Mr. DOUGLAS—I certainly never knew a judge to refuse to admit a piece of evidence, or think of it; and Mr. WADE promptly reminded him of that other rule of law, which forbids a man bringing witnesses into Court to impeach him. Mr. W. also defended the character of the Governor of Ohio, in response to the charge that that State for the Free States cause in Kansas, if some Senator, heard, merrymakes and murders the people of Kansas, another may defend and protect him; and for one he would do it to the extent of his means, and the necessities of the case, and trust the consequences to God.

Mr. JOHNS, of Tennessee, next attempted to show that Colonel LANE makes the memorial of the Kansas Legislature, already reported by the Senate, a part of his own memorial, and that, therefore, if the Senate receives the latter, they must receive the document they have already rejected as forged, to be again rejected. Mr. HALE spoke of the unparalleled hostility with which the Senate had rejected memorial to introduced by LANE, only a part of the executive, and not an equal to Congress.

After a few words from Mr. TOMBS, Mr. SEWARD took the floor, and delivered a very eloquent and impressive speech, which was listened to with almost breathless attention. After expressing Mr. DOUGLAS attempt to put some of his fellow Senators in a false position, by his assertion to refer to the insulting and un-Democratic conclusion of two days ago, from Kansas, he proceeded to defend his position in this Senatorial opposition. If the Senator from Illinois used the phrase Black Republicans as a term of reproach, Mr. WILSON and those who coincide in sentiment with him, were content to accept the term, and in the contest with "border ruffian" Democracy, would go into the battle expecting to conquer. Already they began to see the fruits of the struggle upon this issue, in the defeat of some of those who, in the Senate, had been the cohorts of slavery. "In the words of Burns," said the speaker, "we have seen them going down one by one, unwilling sacrifices in an implacable cause."

The Senator from Massachusetts thought it untbecoming in the Senator from Illinois, one of the Democratic candidates for the Presidency, to apply a term, invented as an insult and reproach, to three-fourths of the free people of the United States. It was the Democrats habit also frequently to prate of "Abolitionists" and "Abolition agitation," and the terms should be very intensely disagreeable to Mr. WILSON and his friends; and the latter could with propriety declare that the opponents of slavery extension, while they desire to see the Federal Government divorced from slavery, have no desire to interfere with the institution within the States wherein it exists. They held that to be a question which each of the sixteen Slave States must dispose of for itself; and opinions, and phrases, and misrepresentations designed to create a different impression were unworthy of the Senator from Illinois, they should come from subaltern men.

In conclusion, Mr. WILSON stated that the report of the Kansas Committee of Investigation, when ever made, would show that in 1855 the bill for the organization of the Territories of Kansas and Nebraska was defeated by the order and the efforts of Dr. ATCHISON, who was then President, and that in the Summer of 1855 scores of men were organized in Western Missouri, whose members were pledged to the establishment of Slavery in Kansas; that having effected their organization he came to Washington in the Winter of 1855, and forced to resign Hampton as President of the Senate in order that he might be made Chairman of the Committee on Territories, and control the legislation which should fasten Slavery upon Kansas. This arrangement was not carried out; but Dorcas and the Senate and the Executive promptly followed the lead of this border ruffian chief, and the result is before the country. All the circumstances combine to show that there was a deep laid conspiracy to enslave Kansas, and establish in it a Slave State. Yet those who resist, they are "agitators!" These agitators, and the men that "we will subdue you!"—an interval too long chosen by the Senator from Illinois—the dreams at Abolitionists, &c., might have some effect perhaps in some parts of the country, but not much for the great masses of the people of the United States were being educated up to a stand and overlooking all this. You may vote us down perhaps, said the Senator, but you can never subdue us; we believe in a race of men that are never subdued. The sons of duty stand upon our pathway, and we shall follow it let what will befide. In the end we shall triumph. Even now we have an overwhelming majority of the people of the United States with us, if we are only united, and we intend to enlarge this (the opposition) side of the Chamber, and turn over the other.

The debate was continued until late hour. Mr. DOUGLAS, in replying to Mr. WILSON, insinuated, or pretended that the people of Illinois are a white race opposed to amalgamation, and said that if Massachusetts shows the genuinene sincerity of amalgamation they were welcome. Mr. WILSON stingingly rejoined, as he cast his eye slowly around the Senate Chamber, that Massachusetts favored no such amalgamation; but that he should expect the Senator from Illinois, when came here with the colored representatives of his State, to take them home with him to his own State, to be consistent. Mr. WILSON's letter is already so extended by a brief sketch of this debate that I have no room for further comment, except to call special attention to the fact that every Senator claiming to be a Democrat closed the proceedings of to-day by refusing to receive and examine the memorial of a citizen in self-defence from assaults made upon his public and private character by Senators in their places. Col. Lane's Memorial.

To the Honorable the Senate of the United States:

Your memorialist, claiming to be entitled to a seat in your honorable body as a Senator from the State of Kansas, when her present application for admission into the Union shall be granted, would respectfully represent:

That the memorial from the members of the Senate and the House of Representatives of the Provisional Government of Kansas, presented by the Senator from Michigan, (Gen. CASS) at the request of your memorialist, which was the subject of debate on Thursday last, was framed and adopted as follows:

The General Assembly of Kansas assembled at Topeka on the fourth of last month (March) under the Constitution which was ratified by the people on the 15th of December last, a copy of which has been presented to your honorable body. A Committee was raised for the purpose of drafting a Memorial to Congress, asking for the admission of Kansas into the Union as a State. That Committee, on the 14th, by Judge SCHUYLER SMITH, reported the accompanying Memorial, a short time before the General Assembly (about four weeks since) took a recess until the Fourth of July next. This Memorial was read in each House, and by each unanimously adopted. It was hastily prepared by Mr. HUTCHINSON, and although entirely correct in its relation of fact, was deemed by some crude and prolix in its phraseology. To remedy these defects it was referred to a Committee, of which Mr. HUTCHINSON was made Chairman, with power to revise, modify and correct it, and with instructions to prepare three revised copies; one for each House of Congress and one for the People of the United States. The Committee on Revision met, a short time after, at Topeka, (the General Assembly having meantime taken recess), and Gov. ROBINSON and your memorialist were present by invitation. The Memorial was examined, and it was determined that so much as was superfluous and inconsiderate in its form or expression should be omitted in the revised copies, which your memorialist, who was on his way to this City as one of the United States Senators elect, was instructed to prepare and submit. This duty your memorialist proceeded to discharge immediately upon his arrival; and three copies were prepared by a clerk. On examination of them, some sentences were deemed superfluous, and were stricken out by direction of your memorialist. Thus, the three copies, with their alterations, were prepared in this City, in conformity with the authority vested in your memorialist by the Committee on Revision, and in obedience to your instructions, and when so prepared were submitted to C. ROBINSON and Mr. HUNT, the one the Governor, the other one of the Supreme Judges of the Provisional Government of Kansas, who accompanied your memorialist to this city, and by them were sanctioned. They were seen by no other person, except one member of the House of Representatives, who casually entered the room when they were being read, until they were confided to the Senator from Michigan, (Gen. CASS) and the member from Indiana, (Mr. MACE) to be presented to their respective branches. After their reception and reference, the third copy, at the request of the editor of the Tribune, was given to him for publication.

Your memorialist earnestly solicits your honorable body to institute a comparison between the memorial submitted by General CASS with the original draft herewith annexed, that by such examination you will perceive and admit that no change of purpose or substance has been made, and that all the amendments have been calculated and intended to fulfill the purposes for which the original draft was subjected to revision by the Legislature of Kansas.

Immediately subsequent to the reference of the Memorial to the Committee of Revision, as above recited, three separate sets of signatures were executed by the members of the General Assembly, in the presence of your memorialist, to be attached to the revised copies when completed. These, unfortunately, have been mislaid, and the names subscribed to the Memorial presented to your honorable body were taken from autographs now in his possession. They, being in a book containing other memoranda, cannot be attached to the Memorial, but the book is placed by your memorialist in the hands of the Senator from Iowa, (Mr. HARLAN) with a request that it be exhibited to your honorable body. Herewith, and as part of this memorial, is appended the original draft, duly authenticated, of the memorial referred to, as reported by the Chairman of the Committee, (Mr. HUTCHINSON) adopted by the General Assembly, referred to the Committee on Revision, and by them, as aforesaid, altered, from which the revised copy, which I am instructed to present to your honorable body, is prepared.

With this explanation and affidavit, which your memorialist trusts will be satisfactory, he, on behalf of the Provisional Legislative bodies of Kansas, prays you to receive again the Memorial with which he is charged by them, being the one which was submitted by General CASS, and grant the prayer there in expressed to admit Kansas into the Union with her present Constitution, on an equal footing with the other States. All of which is respectfully submitted. J. H. LANE.

WASHINGTON CITY, April 14, 1856.

[Inclosure.]

Memorial of Orthodox, Twenty and Odd of Washington City, Kansas.

Personally appeared before the undersigned, Justice of the Peace, in and for said City, JAMES SHARP, who, being duly sworn, says, he saith states that the twenty-four half sheets of paper hereunto annexed contain the original draft of the memorial from the Members of the General Assembly of Kansas, to the Congress of the United States, as reported by Judge SCHUYLER SMITH, Chairman of the Committee appointed to draft said Memorial; as passed by both branches of said Assembly, as referred to the Committee on Revision, and returned by said Committee to the Assembly, and from which the revised copy was prepared, and from which the revised copy was passed by General CASS, and which was the subject of remarks on Thursday last.

Dated in Washington City, the 14th day of April, 1856. J. H. LANE.

Sworn and subscribed before me this 14th April, 1856. JOHN McLEAN, Justice Supreme Court United States.

Fraude in the Albany Municipal Election—Eli Perry Declared Elected Mayor.

ALBANY, Tuesday, April 15.

The meeting at the Capitol last evening, to protest against the fraude in the recent Charter Election, was largely attended.

The vote for Mayor, in the Seventh and Eighth Wards, was rejected by the Common Council last night on the ground of alleged frauds in canvassing, and Eli Perry was declared elected Mayor. The Board remained in session until 3 o'clock this morning.

From the Albany Evening Journal.

The Common Council, after a long debate last night over the Election Returns, resolved, by a vote of 11 to 2, to reject those from the Seventh Ward on the ground of frauds committed at the polls. They then also rejected those of the Southern District of the Eighth Ward. Deducting these from the aggregate vote, ELI PERRY has a majority of the votes cast in the other Wards, which, according to this ruling of the Common Council, elects him. The remainder of the returns were certified to without alteration.

Fires.

STEAMBOAT DESTROYED ON SENECA LAKE—MAN BURNED TO DEATH.

GENEVA, N. Y., Tuesday, April 15.

The steamboat John Arnot, plying on the Seneca Lake, was burned to the water's edge this morning, while laying at her dock at Watkins. A man on board named DENNIS was burned to a crisp. He resided at Rushay. Nearly all on board were more or less injured, but few seriously. Capt. TUTHILL was burned about the head, hands and feet.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRES AT THE WEST.

CINCINNATI, Tuesday, April 14.

Eighteen houses in Williamstown, Ky., were destroyed by fire on Saturday. The loss is unknown.

The mahogany sash-mill of HENRY ALMO, in Cincinnati, was damaged by fire yesterday, to the extent of $12,000.

Last night the upper story of the Office of the [illegible] was burned.

Republican State Convention in Massachusetts.

BOSTON, Tuesday, April 15.

A delegate Convention of the Republicans of Massachusetts has been called to meet at Worcester on the 4th of June next, for the purpose of selecting delegates to the Republican National Convention to be held at Philadelphia on the 17th of the same month.

Trenton Municipal Election.

TRENTON, Tuesday, April 15.

At the Charter election held in this City, yesterday, JOSEPH WOOM, Democrat, was elected Mayor by 250 majority, which is about the average majority for the entire Democratic city ticket, except Superintendent of Schools. The Common Council is a tie.

Fatal Railroad Accident.

NASHUA, N. H., Tuesday, April 15.

A carriage containing Rev. Mr. JEWETT, wife and son, was run down by a train of cars this afternoon. The son died this evening, and Mr. JEWETT is not expected to survive. Mrs. JEWETT may possibly recover.

Condition of the Erie Canal.

BUFFALO, Tuesday, April 15.

The Erie Canal is reported to be in such condition between this city and Lockport as to preclude the possibility of opening it before the fifth of May.

Navigation of the Penobscot.

BANGOR, Me., Tuesday, April 15.

The ice on the Penobscot moved down this afternoon, and navigation will probably be unobstructed to this city by to-morrow morning. There has been no freshet, and no loss of logs.

THE VIRGINIA CELEBRATION OF CLAY'S BIRTHDAY.—The Richmond papers have accounts of the enthusiastic celebration on Saturday last of the 79th anniversary of the birth of HENRY CLAY, with appropriate ceremonies at the Slash Cottage, Hanover County, Va., the spot of his nativity. A special train left Richmond at 3 P. M., and about 400 persons.

On the introduction of the regular toasts, responses to them were drawn successively from Messrs. CALEB CUSHING, U. S. Attorney-General; Hon. J. M. BOTTS, Senator BUTLER, Mr. CADWALADER, M. C., of Pennsylvania; Senators CRITTENDEN, DOUGLAS, JOHNS, of Tennessee; BIGLER, of Pennsylvania; JOHNS, of Iowa; Mr. KEY, District-Attorney, and Mr. SIDNEY WEBSTER, Private Secretary of the President.

Mr. BOTTS performed the ceremony of christening the village where this grand celebration occurred, and which has been heretofore known as the "Slash Cottage," with the name of "Ashland."

DROUGHT IN VIRGINIA.—The dry season is a subject of universal complaint among the farmers in Virginia. Less rain has fallen in the vicinity of Fredericksburg, for the last three months, says the Herald, than during the same period for twenty years. The Herald, speaking of the effect of the drought upon the wheat, says, that "notwithstanding the severe cold, the wheat is in the best order. This, however, is to be attributed to the fact that, previous to the gale of many days ago, it was covered with a thick coating of ice, through which the air could not penetrate. Air is as necessary to the vegetable as it is to the animal kingdom.

Disgraceful—"The Shed" Broken Up.

A notorious dance-house at No. 128 Old Williamsburg-street, known as "The Shed," which has been for a long time a rendezvous for the most degraded of both sexes, was, about 11½ o'clock last night, the scene of the most disgraceful capers. A crowd of young men and boys who had been present during the evening, suddenly, and as if by prearrangement, extinguished and tore down the gas lights. They then, like so many fiends, set to work to rend and demolish every article of furniture which they could lay their hands upon, and in this they were completely successful. Chairs and tables were pitched about in all directions; the inmates of the house fled in terror to the street, screaming for help, and the women visitors attempted to flee, but many of them were detained. This scene lasted for nearly a quarter of an hour, and when finished, the gay participators in it walked away in a body delighted with the "fun." No arrests were made.

Sticking up the Fares—Third-avenue Railroad.

To the Editor of the New-York Daily Times:

The increase of fare from six cents to ten cents, asked for by the Third-avenue Company, is to apply to every passenger who resides above Eighty-sixth-street. That is the dividing-line, above which every adult or boy or girl over 12 years of age, who goes up and down once daily, is required to pay at the rate of $60 per annum more than is allowed by the grant. In this shameful attempt (entirely unknown to the great body of citizens of Yorkville and Harlem) they have not had the decency to make the dividing-line the natural one—about Ninety-sixth-street—but wish to include half Yorkville. It is preposterous to suppose that the citizens favor this sly job; the fact is, the Committee of last year never advertised their meeting on the subject, and when it first became public in the proceedings of the last meeting of the Board of Aldermen, in December, it fell like a bombshell among the Harlem and Yorkville people. A meeting was organized at Harlem, and a committee was appointed to remonstrate against it, consisting of Messrs. MAGNELLIN KELLY, THOS. GOWENS and WM. H. BROOMHALL. No meeting of the Aldermen's Railroad Committee has been held publicly from that time until the one noticed in yesterday's paper. All we desire is a public notice of the objects and time of meeting by the Committee.

If this attempt of the Third-avenue Company succeeds, the other railroad companies will follow suit. It is a fair precedent and we have no right to suppose that any Company will be less awake to its own interests, and the City's, than this. Will enterprising citizens meet and take up fares, or down-town? Will it be better for us to walk up town? Will we pay the City Railroad. AN UP-TOWN VICTIM.

A Noted Burglar Convicted.

In the Court of General Sessions yesterday a young man of prepossessing appearance, very shrewd and intelligent, was tried on a charge of burglary. His present name is EDWARD TAYLOR, but he has had, it is said, as many aliases as he can tell upon his fingers, and for a long time he has been known to the Police as a most desperate and dangerous character. The Jury who tried him yesterday were not aware that he was one of the gang which broke into the store of JEREMIAH, the tailor, in Broadway, two years ago, and set it on fire, thereby causing the death of thirteen or fourteen firemen. If they had been aware of that fact, they would not probably have recommended him to the mercy of the Court, when they found him guilty.

The burglary was committed on March 14 of the present year, in the store of Mr. GAMBRIDGE, No. 97 Gold-street. The property stolen was valued at $150, and consisted chiefly of sheep skins. A carriage was employed in their removal, which was traced by officers MATHEWS to the store of MORRIS and JOHN LEVY, in Canal-street, where the goods were found by officer EDWARDS, of the Chief's Office. TAYLOR, with his confederate WILSON, who has not yet been tried, were arrested in the store, together with the receivers, the brothers LEVY. The latter, yesterday, pleaded guilty to receiving the stolen goods. TAYLOR was not sentenced. The Jury serious with his appearance, and ignorant of his aliases, thought were inclined to clemency. Preparations had been made for their passing the night in deliberation, and it was not till nearly 7 o'clock P. M. that their verdict was delivered. During the whole of the trial, which occupied several hours, a crowd of the worst thieves and burglars in the City filled the lobby of the Court, anxious for the fate of the prisoner at the bar.

☞ The Central Committee of the Mount Vernon Estate, Richmond, Va., have invited Mayor WOOD to deliver an address in that city, at such time as he may specify, in aid of the purchase of the Mount Vernon property. He has accepted the invitation, and will deliver the address early in May. His subject will be the "Character and Genius of Alexander Hamilton."

BOARD OF GOVERNORS—TUESDAY.

The number of inmates remaining at the various hospitals, prisons and asylums, under the care of the Governors, for the week ending April 12, 1856, is 2,[illegible], showing a decrease of [illegible] upon the previous week; 1,164 had been admitted, 30 had died, 1,114 had been discharged, 114 were sent to the Penitentiary.

Thirteen individuals are in the Small-Pox hospital.

The usual propositions were read.

The death of Mr. BRINKERHOFF, the master baker at Blackwell's Island, being reported, the expenses of his funeral were ordered to be defrayed.

Mr. HARMAN KLEINDINST reports that 61 acres of land on RANDALL'S Island will be under garden cultivation this year. A communication was received from the Warden of the City Prison, stating that the Police Justices continue to commit or impose fines upon intoxicated persons.

MINOR MATTERS.

Two of the medical men connected with the Almshouse were charged with making a disturbance when drunk, and violently entering the apartment of another official. Referred to a Committee and their discharge ordered if the allegations be sustained.

Governor BLEECKER rose to present for the Committee plans and specifications from the architect, Mr. R. G. HAMPSON, in reference to repairs and improvements and new buildings at Bellevue Hospital, the estimates being $[illegible]. Governor GUERNSEY advised that for every thing except the men's work, advertisements should be issued.

Governor TOWNSEND stated that only a portion should be erected this year, and a contract be made for such portion. Governor GUERNSEY on the other hand, thought the work ought to be done. The new or temporary building is of wood, and in the event of a fire among the surrounding buildings, the hospital would certainly go. The whole building ought to be put up immediately. The appropriation has now stood over and no work is yet finished. Six thousand dollars would be required to complete the building for present status, but to carry out the plan of the architect, $[illegible] would be required.

Governor TOWNSEND stated that the contractor for the new wing of the Lunatic Asylum, on Governor's Island, had commenced the work, and it would be completed in a month. Governor GUERNSEY said

CHARLES KINGSLEY'S POEMS.

[illegible] Mr. [illegible] as truly as war, may [illegible] "[illegible]" [illegible] opportunities [illegible] On every [illegible] eyes to [illegible] of Navarre, [illegible] bewilder the [illegible] of the thousand [illegible]. And when that [illegible] philanthropist, patriot or [illegible] and captain, straightway [illegible] and his name becomes an [illegible]. And around him our admiration [illegible] of chivalry, and we [illegible] in the speech of [illegible], and lavish [illegible] the symbols which incarnate man's [illegible] of gallantry and generosity, of courage and the [illegible] of command. So it is that we must honor the name of CHARLES KINGSLEY. A [illegible] of the English Church, a student [illegible], a novelist, a poet, KINGSLEY's pen [illegible] a sword, and his sermons are as banners [illegible]. He speaks and he sings, only to [illegible] or to strike down some armed [illegible], to save some [illegible] good. No living [illegible] more profoundly impressed with the [illegible] words are weapons, and no man ever [illegible] with tools so dangerous. His heart is warm, his limbs are lusty, he rejoices like an old Viking in the tempest of strife—but he has [illegible] passion for the Right, and a scholar's skill in speech, and a Poet's love of Beauty. Small wonder [illegible], therefore, that a name which, but five or six years ago, few of us had heard, should have already become a power in England, [illegible] and America should unite in placing [illegible] of Eversley in the forefront of [illegible] of progress.

[illegible] combines in his genius and his character [illegible] the great qualities that distinguish the [illegible] and the man of action, than any of his [illegible].

The "primrose by the river's brim," is as eloquent to him as it ever was to WORDSWORTH—[illegible] as truly as to WORDSWORTH, all nature [illegible] sweet religious meanings—but the [illegible] to WORDSWORTH was a private [illegible], is a cathedral to KINGSLEY; the poet of [illegible] was a Brahmin whose songs forever [illegible] addressed to himself; the [illegible] of Eversley is an Apostle whose sermons [illegible] into songs to rouse mankind and [illegible] the world.

[illegible] and the splendors of the past are as fascinating to KINGSLEY as they ever were to [illegible] SCOTT was [illegible] a troubadour who [illegible] to honor the deeds of the dead, while KINGSLEY is [illegible] a poet who seeks to learn [illegible] of their passions and their [illegible]. SCOTT is Homeric in the reality, the [illegible] of his sympathies. KINGSLEY [illegible] and the loftiness of his aspiration. CARLYLE, in his most Titanic moods, never [illegible] of strength and valor than [illegible] into his descriptions of sport [illegible]. DICKENS, in his most pathetic moments, never [illegible] with more Christian [illegible] with a manlier pity, than KINGSLEY has given to the woful lives of the [illegible] and the desolate.

It is not our purpose now to dwell at length upon the work which this gifted and true-hearted man has done, and is doing, in [illegible]. If we should say that "Amyas Leigh," and "Alton Locke," "Hypatia" and "Yeast," are the finest prose-poems which England has produced, we should be guilty of a great [illegible] for a critic who respects himself and [illegible] an unfortified opinion, and [illegible] forbids us from developing here the arguments which would at least vindicate such a [illegible] from the imputation of extravagance, if [illegible] to establish it in the reader's belief. But if the mere hint of such a proposition should [illegible] thoughtful person, for the first time, to [illegible] of these remarkable books, it will be worth while to have thrown it out, and we shall [illegible] willing to hold ourselves responsible for the consequences.

[illegible] of those consequences, we opine, will be that the knowledge of "Yeast" and "Alton Locke" will beget an immediate desire for the poems of their author.

And, anticipating this desire, we shall proceed to tell our friends that are to be, what these Poems are, and to give them some notion [illegible] quality. Like all that he has done, Mr. KINGSLEY's poems are full of purpose. But they are not, therefore, prosaic, for their moral [illegible] into the glow of a passion, and while the preacher leads earnestly forward to his end, the [illegible] a poet's pleasure in the beauty or the [illegible] of every emotion that he studies, and every scene that his fancy conjures up.

The longest poem which Mr. KINGSLEY has written is in the dramatic form, and is founded upon the story of ELIZABETH of Hungary. In the "Saint's Tragedy" the poet (we use his own words) has contemplated the lovely Princess, whose memory makes more green the green Thuringia where she lived, as the "type of the two great [illegible] of the Middle Ages; first, of [illegible] Scriptural or unconscious, and Popish [illegible] purity—in a word, between innocence [illegible]; next, of the struggle between [illegible] human affection and the Manichean [illegible] with which a celibate clergy would have all [illegible] the names of husband, wife, and [illegible]." To exhibit this latter falsehood in its [illegible] consequences, when received into a heart [illegible] and determination sufficient to follow [illegible] to its ultimate practice, is the main [illegible] of my Poem. That a most degrading and [illegible] contradiction on these points must have [illegible] in the mind of Elizabeth, and of all who, [illegible] characters, shall have found themselves under similar influences, is a necessity that must be evident to all who know anything of the deeper affections of men. In the idea of a married Romish Saint, these miseries should follow logically from the Romish view of human relations. In Elizabeth's case, their existence is proved equally logically from the acknowledged facts of her conduct."

Here, it will be owned, is material enough for tragic thought. The great struggle of life between [illegible] and authority is here condensed in the [illegible] emotions which shake the heart of a woman—the heart of a woman, which is the natural [illegible] of Religion, and the natural home of Love. [illegible] conflict waged through weary years, [illegible] daily its once beauteous battle field—[illegible] the bleeding steps of those soft, white [illegible] scenes, is a spectacle which [illegible] put fire into a poet's brain, and [illegible] to the eyes, and thoughts deeper than [illegible] into the minds of all who feel and think. About this beautiful central figure, this Madonna who believes herself a Magdalen, KINGSLEY has grouped characters who breathe, and speak, and [illegible] the very life of the wondrous middle age, "the [illegible] and perverse generation" which took delight in all things fierce and foul, and made a world so bad, that those who would be saints at all, were forced to leave the world altogether. Chief among these personages, is Lewis, the valiant husband of Elizabeth,—Lewis, who dimly feels the beauty of his wife's pure soul, and madly adores the beauty of her face and heart,—Lewis, a [illegible] worshipper, as were all knights—but ignorant as they were all, of the [illegible], the supreme, the [illegible] womanhood which only blooms into [illegible] the light of a refined intelligence, and a [illegible] in its strength.

So Lewis, who cannot help Elizabeth to see the true saintship from the false, must surrender her, and with her all his hopes, and her own true earthly hopes also, into the custody of Conrad [illegible].

A noble nature warped and [illegible] by exclusive [illegible] which we [illegible] to him. In the conception and the development of [illegible] Conrad, Mr. KINGSLEY has been guided by the same large sagacity, the same far-seeing generosity, which led him into the very hearts of the Alexandrian skeptic and the fair Greek visionary, and gave him power to make the Nineteenth Century sympathise with the Fifth.

Yet the "Saint's Tragedy" can hardly be pronounced a successful drama. For a drama is the exhibition of an action, or course of actions by which human character is tested and revealed. It is the crystallization of emotions and sentiments about some critical experience upon which the dramatist seizes, and holds it up to us flashing with condensed and luminous truth. In the "Saint's Tragedy" KINGSLEY has described development with its results in action, instead of painting action with its apocalypse of development. And this mistake in the artistic construction of the work throws it necessarily out of the dramatic realm. But, without being a great drama, the "Saint's Tragedy" is a most brilliant dramatic poem. Had SHAKESPEARE written for us the psychological history of Lady MACBETH, with a hint at the eventual atrocities of her career, we should still have had a poem of passionate interest, though we should have lost an immortal tragedy.

How vividly Mr. KINGSLEY has treated his theme, his own words shall witness. Look at this scene for instance, in which Conrad and Lewis are introduced in conversation with a third, Walter, a great, hearty, hulking fellow, compact of the Norse King, who believed "neither in Christ nor in Odin, but in his own good sword and black-sailed ship," with Pulci's Falstaffian giant, who was given to one doctrine only, and that "a good fat capon whether roast or boiled."

Lewis and Walter riding through the rich fields, tilled by the Monks of Thuringia, meet Conrad, who joins them with a ghostly greeting.

Con.—Peace to you, reverend and war-worn knight,
And you, fair youth, upon whose swarthy lips
Bloome the rich promise of a noble manhood.
Methinks, if simple monks may read your thoughts,
That with no envious or distasteful eyes
Ye watch the labors of God's poor elect.

Wal.—Why, we were saying, how you cunning rooks
Pitch as by instinct on the fattest fallows.

Con.—For he who feeds the ravens, furnisheth
The bread and water sure, and leads us on
By peaceful streams in pastures green to lie,
Beneath our Shepherd's eye.

Lew. [In such a nook, now,
To nestle from this noisy world—

Con. And drop
The burden of thyself upon the threshold.

* * * * *

Lew. Be it so;
But love you have forsworn; and what were life
Without that chivalry, which bends man's knees
Before God's image and his glory, best
Revealed in woman's beauty?

Con. Ah! poor worldlings!
Little you dream what maddening ecstacies,
What rich ideals haunt, by day and night,
Alone, and in the crowd, even to the death,
The servitors of that celestial court
Where peerless Mary, sun-enthroned, reigns,
In whom all Eden dreams of womanhood,
All grace of form, hue, sound, all beauty strewn
Like pearls unstrung, about this ruined world,
Have their fulfillment, and their archetype.
Why hath the rose its scent, the lily grace?
To mirror forth her loveliness, from whom,
Primeval fount of grace, their livery came;
Pattern of seraphs! only worthy ark
To bear her God athwart the floods of time!

Lew.—Who dare aspire to her? Alas, not I!
To me she is a doctrine and a picture—
I cannot live on dreams.

* * * * *

Wal.—Ay, by the Living Lord, who died for you!
Will you be cozened, Sir, by these air-blown fancies,
These male hysterics, by starvation bred
And huge conceit? cast off God's gift of manhood,
And like the dog in the adage, drop the true bone
With snapping at the sham one in the water?
What were you born a man for?

Lew. Ay, I know it:—
I cannot live on dreams. Oh for one friend,
Myself, yet not myself; one not so high
But she could love me, not too pure to pardon
My sloth and meanness! Oh! for flesh and blood,
Before whose feet I could adore, yet love!
How easy then were duty! From her lips
To learn my daily task:—in her pure eyes
To see the living type of those heaven-glories
I dare not look on:—let her work her will
Of love and wisdom on these straining hinds:—
To squire a saint around her labor field,
And she and it both mine:—That were possession!

Con.—The flesh, fair youth—

Wal. Avaunt, bald snake, avaunt!
We are past your burrow now. Come, come, Lord Landgrave,
Look round, and find your saint.

Lew. Alas! one such—
One such, I know, who upward from one cradle
Beside me like a sister—No, thank God! no sister!
Has grown and grown, and with her mellow shade
Has blanched my thornless thoughts to her own hue,
And even now is budding into blossom,
Which never shall bear fruit, but inward still
Resorb its vital nectar, self-contained,
And leave no living copies of its beauty
To after ages. Ah! be less, sweet maid,
Less than thyself! Yet no—my wife thou might'st be,
If less than thus—but not the saint thou art.
What! shall my selfish longings drag thee down
From maid to wife? Degrade the soul I worship?
That were a caitiff deed! Oh, misery!
Is wedlock treason to that purity
Which is the jewel and the soul of wedlock?
Elizabeth! my saint! (Exit Conrad.)

Wal. What, Sir? the Princess?
Ye saints in heaven, I thank you!

Lew. Oh, who else,
Who else the minutest lineament fulfills
Of this my cherished portrait?

Wal. So—'tis well.
Hear me, my Lord—you think this dainty princess
Too perfect for you, eh? That's well again—
For that whose price after fruition falls
May well too high be rated ere enjoyed—
In plain words,—if she looks an angel now, you will be better mated than you expected, when you find her—a woman. For flesh and blood she is, and that young blood,—whom her childish misusage and your brotherly love; her loneliness and your protection; her springing fancy and (for I may speak to you as a son) your beauty and knightly grace have so bewitched, and, as some say, degraded, that briefly, she loves you, and briefly, better, her few friends fear, than you love her.

Lew.—Loves me! My Count, that word is quickly spoken:
And yet if it be true, it thrusts me forth
Upon a shoreless sea of untried passion,
From whence is no return.

Wal. By Siegfried's sword,
My words are true, and I came here to say them,
To thee, my son, in all but blood.
Mass, I'm no gossip. Why? What ails thee, boy?

Lew.—Loves me! Henceforth, let no man, peering down
Through the dim, glittering mine of future years,
Say to himself, "Too much! this cannot be!"
To-day and custom wall up our horizon:
Before the hourly miracle of life
Blindfold we stand, and sigh, as though God were not.
I have wandered in the mountains, mist-bewildered,
And now a breeze comes, and the veil is lifted,
And priceless flowers, o'er which I trod unheeding,
Gleam ready for my grasp. She loves me then!
She, who to me was as a nightingale
That sings in magic gardens, rock-beleaguered,
To passing angels melancholy music—
Whose dark eyes hung, like far-off evening stars,
Those rosy-cushioned windows coldly shining
Down from the cloud-world of the unknown fancy—
She, for whom holiest touch of holiest knight
Seemed all too gross—who might have been a saint
And companied with angels—thus to pluck
The spotless rose of her own maidenhood
To give it unto me!

Not a phrase have we to add here. The silence which befits the dying fall of sweet music, comes best after words like these, and speaks the poet's praise more exquisitely well than any voice.

Will you listen again, reader? It is Elizabeth who shall speak now. You have heard the morning song of Love in the heart of Lewis. Love won the heart of the maiden princess too, and she became a bride. But still her soul was troubled with doubts, and these doubts were fostered and inflamed by the teachings of Conrad, and the life of the two lovers became at last a tragedy to the glory and power of the Church—and Lewis went his way to the Crusades, and Elizabeth with painful steps pursued the path of sanctity. And now at last she has reached the summit whence Heaven is to be descried, and she has subdued the [illegible] and the flesh—and the end of all is at hand. [illegible] the passing away of the life that [illegible] with such great pains, and [illegible] to make [illegible] but rich to God.

Abbess.—The maid, she heard in dreams her Saviour call her
To mansions built for her from everlasting.

Con.—Ay, so she could.

Abbess. [illegible] me, in her [illegible]
Was there no [illegible] no self-abhorrence
For [illegible]?

Con.—[illegible] thought of [illegible]
No [illegible] child could show a chart of thoughts
More spotless than [illegible].

Fool. Strange, she said nought;
I had hoped she had [illegible].

Con. When, next, I asked her
How she would be interred; "In the vilest weeds,"
Quoth she, "my poor hut holds; I will not pamper
When dead, that flesh which, living, I despised.
And for my wealth, see it, to the last doit
Bestowed upon the poor of Christ."

2d Woman. Oh grace!

3d Woman.—Oh, soul to this world poor, but rich toward God!

* * * * *

Woman. [Oh listen, listen!]
What sweet sounds from her fast-closed lips are welling,
As from the cavern'd shaft, deep minstr's song?

Eliz. [In a low voice.]—Through the stifling room
Floats strange perfume;
Through the crumbling thatch
The angels watch.
Over the [illegible] tree,
They [illegible], and flutter, and hover and glide,
Wafting old sounds to my dreary bedside,
[illegible] of songs which I used to know
When I slept by my sisters, and the swallows
Called me at day-dawn from under the eaves.
Hark to them! Hark to them now—
Flitting like woodlarks, tender and low—
Cool rustling leaves—tinkling waters—
Sheep-bells over the lea—
In their silver plumes Eden-gales whisper—
In their hands Eden-lilies—not for me—not for me—
No crown for the poor fond bride!
The song told me so,
Long, long ago,
How the maid chose the white lily;
But the bride she chose
The red red rose,
And by its thorn died she.

Well—in my Father's house are many mansions—
I have trodden the waste howling ocean-foam,
Till I stand upon Canaan's shore,
Where Crusaders from Zion's towers call me home,
To the saints who are gone before.

Con.—The victory's gained at last!
The fiend is baffled, and her saintship sure!
Oh people blest of heaven.

Eliz. Oh master, master!
You will not let the mob, when I lie dead
Make me a show—paw over all my limbs—
Pull out my hair—pluck off my finger-nails—
Wear scraps of me for charms and amulets,
As if I were a mummy, or a drug?
As they have done to others—I have seen it—
Nor set me up in ugly naked pictures
In every church, that cold world-hardened wits
May gossip o'er my secret tortures? Promise—
Swear to me! I demand it!

Con. No man lights
A candle, to be hid beneath a bushel:
Thy virtues are the Church's dower: endure
All which the edification of the faithful
Makes needful to be published.

Eliz. Oh my God!
I had stripped myself of all, but modesty!
Dost thou claim yet that victim? Be it so.
Now take me home! I have no more to give thee!
So weak—and yet no pain—why, now nought ails me!
How dim the lights burn! Here—
Where are you, children?
Alas! I had forgotten.
Now I must sleep—for ere the sun shall rise,
I must begone upon a long, long journey
To him I love.

Con. She means her heavenly bridegroom—
The spouse of souls.

Eliz. I said, to him I love.
Let me sleep, sleep.
You will not need to wake me—so—good night.
[Folds herself into an attitude of repose. The scene closes.]

Not very familiar with dramatic art, Mr. KINGSLEY has amplified his tragedy beyond reasonable bounds, nor has he always been faithful to his own clear dramatic conceptions of the characters he paints—but the extracts we have given will abundantly sustain us in the assertion that the poem is one of the most passionate and powerful which have been produced in these latter days. The same intense pictorial genius which filled the pages of "Yeast" and "Amyas Leigh," with the atmosphere of England, and the light of the tropics, gives life and warmth to many a scene and sentence of the "Saint's Tragedy." Keen insight into the human heart, genuine sympathy with the finer pleasures and the finer pains of the intellect and the soul, generous contempt of all half measures and half truths, cordial joy in the natural loveliness and affections and delights of our mortal life, breathe through the whole; and had Mr. KINGSLEY's American publishers contented themselves with republishing the Tragedy alone, they would have done their author a good service and us a better one.

But they have added a collection of miscellaneous poems, the most and the best of which are already known to the admirers of Mr. KINGSLEY's genius, but which we commend afresh to them and to all men. Mr. KINGSLEY has a dash of the true lyric enthusiasm, which combines with his strong imaginative qualities and his vivid perceptions of nature, to make his minor poems, and particularly his ballads, singularly fine. Who that reads poetry does not know this wonderful song from "Alton Locke?"

"O Mary, go and call the cattle home,
And call the cattle home,
And call the cattle home,
Across the sands of Dee;"
The Western wind was wild and dank wi' foam,
And all alone went she.

The Western tide crept up along the sand,
And o'er and o'er the sand,
And round and round the sand,
As far as eye could see.
The rolling mist came down and hid the land—
And never home came she.

"Oh! is it weed, or fish, or floating hair—
A tress o' golden hair,
O' drowned maiden's hair,
Above the nets at sea?
Was never salmon yet that shone so fair
Among the stakes on Dee?"

They rowed her in across the rolling foam,
The cruel crawling foam,
The cruel hungry foam,
To her grave beside the sea:
But still the boatmen hear her call the cattle home
Across the sands of Dee!

Does not that bring before you the sands and the sea, infinite dreariness and the wail of the wind, when the mists are deepening the twilight into night, and a hundred vague forebodings and dismal fancies throng upon the soul? Not less powerful is the ballad of "Tregarva" in Yeast, which tells, with terrible simplicity and force, the story of the peasant's woe, and the landlord's gross, unthinking selfishness.

If PALEY's parable of pigeons kept him from the Bishop's bench, KINGSLEY's "Merry Brown Hares," you may be sure, have run away with his chance of the lawn-sleeves. But he is one of the Bishops by the grace of God, and can well spare the mitre and the crook, while he can strike upon the lyre such notes as this, at the sound of which we definitely drop our humble theorbo.

THE DAY OF THE LORD.

The Day of the Lord is at hand, at hand!
Its storms roll up the sky:
A nation sleeps starving on heaps of gold;
All dreamers toss and sigh;
The night is darkest before the dawn—
When the pain is sorest the child is born,
And the Day of the Lord at hand.

Gather you, gather you, angels of God—
Freedom, and Mercy, and Truth;
Come! for the Earth is grown coward and old—
Come down and renew us her youth.
Wisdom, Self-sacrifice, Daring, and Love,
Haste to the battle-field, stoop from above,
To the Day of the Lord at hand.

Gather you, gather you, hounds of hell—
Famine, and Plague, and War;
Idleness, Bigotry, Cant, and Misrule,
Gather, and fall in the snare!
Hirelings and Mammonites, Pedants and Knaves,
Crawl to the battle-field—sneak to your graves,
In the Day of the Lord at hand.

Who would sit down and sigh for a lost age of gold,
While the Lord of all ages is here?
True hearts will leap up at the trumpet of God,
And those who can suffer, can dare.
Each old age of gold was an iron age too,
And the meekest of saints may find stern work to do,
In the Day of the Lord at hand.

AGRICULTURAL DIVISION OF THE PATENT OFFICE.—A gentleman writing to the Commissioner of Patents from Molino del Rey, Arkansas, says: "All kinds of stock seem to do well here, but as yet we have no imported stock. Our lands are quite rich, and do not require manuring, and we produce fine crops of cotton, corn, wheat, oats and the like; but the soil has not been thoroughly tested. I have raised from fifty to sixty bushels of corn per acre, and also 2,000 pounds of [illegible] per acre. Insects [illegible] by the [illegible]. Our market is New-Orleans. [illegible] is becoming awakened [illegible] here. The [illegible] towbe and Isabel grapes do well, and are, so far, free from any disease. Peaches, apples, pears, plums, and quinces are sure crop. The grape is only cultivated for table use, but I made some excellent wine from my own during the last year.

THE QUESTION OF SLAVERY.

Southern Views of the Character and Prospects of Abolitionism.

From the Charleston Mercury, April [illegible].

* * * But is the proposition tenable which asserts that the Abolition party is inherently weak—that it has no inherent force or power, either as a moral or political tenet?

The policy of under-estimating or despising the strength of our enemies, in politics as in war, has often produced national disasters the most fatal. The religion, the moral code of the Abolition party, are not our religion, our moral code; but they are not on that account the less a religion, a moral and political tenet to them. It is not wise to overlook the fact that all men pursue not the same method of thought, either on morals, religion, or politics. Different methods of thought (and no two tribes of the human race pursue the same) lead infallibly to different conclusions upon all these subjects. The history of man proves the fact that the benighted Pagan will pour out his blood in defence of his idols as freely and courageously as the Christian in defence of his sacred altars. The faith of the Abolitionists is false to us, but they may deem it truth to them. But whether it be so or not, it is the same to us, for they act upon it as a belief; and it is their acts at last, and not their faith, with which we have to deal. If their faith, their moral and political tenets, produce fanatical madness, and that faith and madness produce action that may be fatal to us, the inherent power and force of these tenets is not only a fact, but even a fearful one. That they are thus led on by a wild and unreasoning faith and fanaticism, is conclusive proof that the organization contains within itself the inherent force, the terrible energy of madness, that would glory over the horrid scenes of blood and carnage as a delicious repast. In vain we urge the considerations of right reason and true religion upon their attention. When men cease to reason, to be rational beings, they become the beast of prey—the tiger in the jungle; and if they have sufficient method in their madness to augment their power, their inherent strength, by a union of their numbers, and to direct their strength to a common effort and aim, they become to the social and political organism what the whirlwind and the storm are to the physical world.

But quitting theory upon this grave question, I appeal to facts. And I point to the history of Abolition both in Europe and America, to prove, what I believe to be true, that no party has arisen among mankind during the last hundred years, which has given such indisputable evidence of inherent strength, or that has gained so many victories over its opponents—over the established orders of society and civilization, with or without resorting to the armies and navies of powerful States and Empires—as the Abolition Party has done. Let us then briefly survey the line of its victorious march, the fields of its conquests.

When less than a century ago, a few obscure individuals first met in conclave in London, to form a programme, to commence their intended assault upon the African slave trade, African Slavery prevailed as a domestic organism, in very nearly every State in Christendom, and in the Isles of Asia, Europe, and America. The people of England alone, had many millions of pounds sterling invested in that trade. The city of Bristol, situated near the confluence of the Severn with the Bristol Channel, was at that time, perhaps, the greatest slave mart in the world. The Atlantic ocean was literally whitened with the sails of the slave ships owned by the Bristol slave merchants; and so popular and profitable was this branch of European commerce, that even reigning princes granted peculiar privileges to commercial companies, cities and states, upon the stipulated condition that they should receive a share of the profits realized from the traffic. At this portentous epoch of the history of Abolition, the American Abolitionists find a precedent for their guidance, which they are now adroitly putting in practice. The anti-Slave Trade Committee in London, disclaimed all intention to abolish Slavery, at any place where it existed within the limits of the British Empire. The abolition of the slave trade alone, they declared, was all they sought to accomplish. The Abolitionists were few in number, and had but little political or social influence in the realm of England. They were opposed and denounced by all the power and influence which many millions of invested capital could bring to bear against them. They were treated with contempt, and scorned by the great mass of the English people, as we have seen repeated in our times nearer home. But they did not falter—they pursued the even tenor of their way, endured with patience the reproaches which were unsparingly heaped upon their heads. They braved the storm of persecution which broke over them, and the more persecution and denunciation prevailed, the more their number and power increased. They sent missionaries to France in the most stormy period of the French revolution. The immortal LAFAYETTE and his Marchioness, MIRABEAU, the elder, and other leaders of the revolution, adopted their abolition tenets, and promised concurrence in national action. They sent missionaries to the United States, and sowed the seeds which now promise a plentiful harvest of ills. The ordinance of 1787 was the immediate effect of the mission to the United States. The United States has a secret history on this subject which has not yet been written.

If the record of the passage of that ordinance be searched, it will be found that Mr. MADISON was in the hall of Congress a short time before, and a short time after the vote on the passage of the ordinance was taken, but his name is not recorded for or against it. The ordinance itself had a somewhat mysterious origin. Even then, almost at the birth of the Republic, there was an inherent force at work, and exerting a mysterious power, the end of which is not yet.

They, the London Abolitionists, entered the British Parliament, first by petition, then by their representatives in the House of Commons. They, too, had a method in their madness. The powerful influence of British gold failed to arrest the career of these despised fanatics. The slave trade was at last abolished, the fleet of Bristol slave-ships were turned out of employment, and the armed surveillance of the British Navy set to watch over them. They were devoted to other pursuits, or stranded upon the shore to rot; millions of capital was thrown out of investment, and invested in other forms. The property of the then flourishing city of Bristol, its commercial importance, its great social and industrial interests, were prostrated at a single blow, to rise no more. All Christendom, in the end including the United States, united in a common league to put an end to the African trade.

But the London Committee were not content with the great victory they had gained against such fearful odds. The Slave-trade abolished, they boldly elevated the black flag of Abolition, and announced the intention to abolish the institution of Slavery itself, wherever it existed in the British Empire, and thereby to free the British Crown from all responsibility on the subject of Slavery. That is the source, the precedent, from which our Abolition party derives the idea and the language in which they clothe it, of divorcing the Federal Government from Slavery and "slave power."

In this second campaign of the English Abolitionists, they met with a stern and uncompromising resistance. The great interests of the British West Indies were at stake. Inch by inch the field was contested, and year after year the Abolition party gained ground upon their opponents.

The immense monetary power of the East India Company was enlisted on the side of Abolition, as the result of a deeply laid and comprehensive scheme of commercial monopoly, which my limits will not permit me to discuss in detail. It is enough for my present purpose to say, that Abolition again triumphed over all its opponents, by means of its "inherent force," the power mysterious and undefinable though it be, which it exercises over the minds of men. "The truce of God" was agreed to in the Parliament, Lords and Commons, and Slavery was abolished throughout the British Empire. In this vast wreck and ruin of the existing social system, slave property was not the only property that was involved in a common fate. The landed interests of the West India slaveowners, perhaps the most valuable property of that class in the world, was remanded back to the dominion of the desert, the jungle and the reptile, by the act of negro emancipation.

Thus, a single Abolition victory demolished, at a single blow, without violence or bloodshed, without the aid of armies or navies, perhaps five hundred millions worth of the property of British subjects, and the semblance of justice was presented to the world, to justify the wrong of paying the owners for the wholesale ruin, twenty millions of pounds sterling; which, if I err not, was paid by the East India Company of merchants.

Since that London Committee of Abolitionists first met in conclave, France, England, Portugal, all Europe has abolished Slavery wherever it existed; with the qualification that Spain agreed with England, I believe, to abolish it in all her dominions, save her West India possessions, in a stipulated number of years, and for a stipulated sum of money. It has been abolished in seven of the old thirteen United States, over two-thirds of the Territorial Districts of the United States, where populous States are now running the career of nations, and including a vast country, rich in the elements which enter into the support and maintenance of human life, and capable of sustaining an empire of two hundred millions of souls. It has been abolished in Mexico, in all the South American States, except, I believe, Brazil, and in many of the isles of the sea. In order to form a right conception of the victories which Abolition has won over the organic structure of human society, let us look at the world-wide area of Slavery, when the London Committee first met, and then look at its circumscribed area now. It exists in the Southern States of this Union, in the Spanish West Indies, and in Brazil. But where else? Echo answers, where? It may, I think, be safely asserted, that no military conqueror, who has disturbed the repose of the world, and scourged the nations of the earth with the rod of his power, has effected such vast changes upon the social and commercial interests and organism of society, as Abolition has already done; and still, uncloyed with its mighty victories, meeting "nor adversity nor defeat," insatiable as the grave, it pursues its steady course, unchecked in its march, confident of gaining still more important, more devastating triumphs. And, with these great historic facts before our eyes and the steady tramp—tramp—of the Abolition forces sounding in our ears, and disturbing our midnight slumbers, we refuse to realize the truth—the reality of our condition, and persevere in ascribing to this mighty element of disruption and subjugation, this destroyer of civilizations and social structures, "inherent weakness." May a ruling Providence open our eyes to the truth before it is too late.

FUTURE RELATIONS OF THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT TO SLAVERY.

From the Charleston Mercury, April [illegible].

I have not [illegible] to [illegible] the importance to the South of a triumph in Kansas. But with the most respectful deference to the Committee, I conclude that a Free Soil defeat in Kansas would not check the progress of Abolition at home, nor "repel political ambition from its falling fortunes."

I have shown that Abolition seeks to accomplish its destructive aims, by the power of the Legislative, and ultimately of the chief Executive authority of the Union. It has, therefore, not only, up to the present time, progressed by the exercise of the power of both the State and Federal Governments, but that it may do much more than it has yet done, it seeks to obtain more entire control of all the departments of the Federal Government—Legislative, Executive and Judicial. Now, what are its chances to accomplish this great aim? Let us see. I have not a line of statistics before me to refer to, of any kind. The facts stated in these numbers are drawn from memory alone. I assume, then, what I believe, on reference to the record, will be found nearly true, that the census return of 1850 shows there are fifteen millions of white population in the Northern States, and seven millions of white population in the Southern States. African slaves have no political rights; but as, under the Constitution, a certain per centage of them enter into the basis of our representation, they add to the number of our representatives. Still, the view I intend to present cannot be rightfully based on any portion of the population of the United States, save that class which constitute the great body politic of the Union—for these alone constitute the State.

Now, writers on political economy, as well as the history of the Union, concur in establishing the fact, that a population that is well supplied with wholesome food, will increase to double its number every twenty-five years—a little more or less. With these data before us, we may, without difficulty, see what an important feature in the future of the Union will be. In twenty-five years from 1850, the North will have thirty millions of white population and the South fourteen millions at the end of the same decade. At the end of the next decade, the North will have sixty millions, and the South twenty-eight. We may even include the Southern slaves in the calculation—and without adding a unit in favor of the North, for the vast tide of foreign emigrants that increase their numbers every year, to which there is no set-off in the South; and at the end of the present decade, the white population of the North will outnumber the population of the South, including the Africans, to the extent of about ten millions of souls; at the end of the next decade to the number of twenty millions—even the balance against the South, outnumbering the whole population of England, Scotland, and Wales—which constitute the basis of the most powerful empire in the world. The North doubtless outnumbers us in population now, to the amount of perhaps seven millions of white population or more. We see their population already great, with an earnestness and energy never perhaps equalled, acting together with an unprecedented unanimity, to the one aim and design of sectionalizing their whole country against us upon the Abolition question. They are shrewd calculators. They know the whole the power of the Federal Government will soon fall into their hands, by the silent but sure operation of the laws of nature; and the idea and intention to outnumber and overwhelm us with their predominant millions, enters as an element into the Free-Soil movement, for they want the extended plains of the territorial districts of the United States, in which to aggregate their millions, by whose power they intend to blot out our civilization from the map of the world. The Union—the Federal Government—are not the elements which are leading on the human race on this Continent to its destiny. That race progresses by laws which lie deeper and exert a power more potent and irresistible. So far from controling and shaping the fortunes and destiny of the people of the Union, the people of the Northern States alone will mould, shape and direct the Government as they please, and drive it before them like chaff before the storm. Look now upon the picture I have drawn, and is it not plain as noon-day that the Federal Government of the Union will be no more Southern forever? A few weeks since we saw a Speaker placed in the Chair in the House of Representatives, without having received a single vote from the South. This is one phase, but more will follow, that are more important still. Abolition will next grasp the Senate in its hand, then the Executive power, then the Judiciary; for Abolition demands sectionalization, that by the power of the Government it may abolish Slavery; political ambition demands sectionalization, for the sake of the millions which enter into and go out of the public treasury. Countless millions present and to come—passion—fanaticism—brutality—abolition—political ambition—sentiment—crazed if you will, but still sentiment—moral, religious and political tenets—all—all demand sectionalization, that the North may rule, pocket the spoils, and subjugate the South—FOR THIS IS THE NORTHERN METHOD OF THOUGHT.

If Kansas was engulfed by an earthquake, and struck out of the map of the Union, it would matter little to the North, for they have room and landed resources enough now for an empire such as the world itself has seldom seen; and its present and future present a field for the arts and impostures of political ambition more inviting and stimulating, far, than any other on the globe. If Kansas be subjected to Southern rule, there is Nebraska, already surrendered to the North without let or hindrance, which is far more than an equivalent.

The question simply is, whether the North shall take all the fruits of the Kansas-Nebraska bill, (which has been lauded as a great Southern triumph,) or only a part. With the North, it is a question of gain, not of loss. If the North triumphs in Kansas, will our Southern National Democrats take back the songs they chanted in honor of their victory over the North upon the Kansas Nebraska bill? They like Washington better than Kansas, perhaps.

We should, as we love our dearest liberties, our hearthstones, and domestic altars, delude ourselves with unfounded hopes no more. THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT—THE UNION—WILL PROTECT THE SOUTH FROM NORTHERN AGGRESSION NO MORE FOREVER.

The Suspected Privateer "America" at Rio—Correspondence Between Commodore Salter and the British Admiral.

From the Washington Union, April 15.

Advices have been received from Commodore WILLIAM D. SALTER, Commander-in-Chief of the Brazil Squadron, dated United States flag-ship Savannah, (harbor Rio de Janeiro,) Feb. 12, 1856. It appears that the United States merchant steamer America, which arrived at the above-named place from New-York, via Pernambuco, and bound to San Francisco, on the 4th of February last, was charged with having arms and ammunition concealed on board. This charge was made to the English Admiral by a person who was only on board the America but a short time, (about twelve hours,) and who proved himself so worthless that he was discharged, thus giving rise to the supposition that he circulated this report with malicious intentions, without having any foundation whatever for making it. The facts are briefly as follows:

The following is a copy of the letter addressed to Commodore SALTER by Rear-Admiral W. J. HOPE JOHNSTONE, commanding H. B. Majesty's Naval forces on the Brazil Coast, dated the 10th of February last:

"The late second mate of the United States steam vessel America, now in this port, (Rio de Janeiro,) having voluntarily acquainted the officer in command of H. B. Majesty's steam vessel Trident, and subsequently informed me verbally and in writing that the above-mentioned steamer, commanded by Captain HUDSON, 'has got two sets of papers, and has eight guns in boxes stowed under the coals, and boxes of small arms under the cabin, none of which are included in the manifest,' and having further stated that she cleared out yesterday at the Custom House, and will sail to-morrow at 6 A. M., I therefore request you will consider it expedient to prevent the America from quitting this port until the above statement on the part of the said mate is proved to be true or otherwise; and, in the meanwhile, I have communicated the information to the British Chargé d'Affaires, in order that the local authorities may act as they deem proper, and also to the French senior officer.

I may add, further, that I recently received information of a fast steamer being about to quit New-York, supposed to act as a Russian privateer, and, although the America does not in every particular answer the description, yet, if the mate's testimony is true, I consider there are just grounds of suspicion in this case, which make me the more desirous of communicating with you on so delicate a point as interfering with the movements of any vessel bearing the United States flag."

The following is the reply of Commodore SALTER to the above letter, dated Feb. 11:

"I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of yesterday, delivered to me by your Secretary, relating to the United States steamer America.

Immediately upon the receipt of your letter, I communicated its contents to Captain HUDSON, and in reply was assured by him in the strongest terms that there were no arms of any description on board the America, with the exception of a rifle, fowling piece, and a pair of pistols, all belonging to himself; that he had on board the ship some boxes of machinery, but not a piece of armament except the above.

Captain HUDSON also stated that the person who gave the information to yourself and the commander of the Trident was not on board the ship when she arrived, but was shipped here, and, proving worthless, and discharged very soon after he joined the vessel. In discharging him Capt. H. was very abrupt, and he (Capt. H.) has no doubt the reports concerning his vessel were made with a malicious motive of revenge.

I am the more convinced of the want of truth in the statements made by the second mate, from the fact that at present in the United States, and particularly in New-York, from which port the America sailed, a most rigid search is made of vessels leaving port, in order to prevent any filibustering movement, and had the America had any such quantity of arms on board, she would have undoubtedly been detained.

I may add that I have been personally acquainted with Capt. HUDSON for a number of years, he having formerly been attached to the United States naval service; and I have perfect confidence in his statement."

Accompanying the above letters is also the affidavit of Captain WILLIAM H. HUDSON, in command of the America, which is supported by the statements of WM. E. LEROY, 2nd Lieutenant, and ROBERT WHITAKER, a boatswain, who examined the vessel.

Commodore SALTER having reason to believe that, notwithstanding his assurance to the English admiral, were the America to go to sea without escort she would be boarded outside either by an English or French vessel-of-war, deemed it best to accompany her in the [illegible] Germantown, "clear of all probability of interference on the part of any foreign vessel-of-war on that coast," and sailed for that purpose on the morning of the 12th of February last in tow of the steamer.

Louis Napoleon in New-York.

Rev. C. S. STEWART, Chaplain in the United States Navy, communicates to the National Intelligencer an interesting account of his acquaintance with the present Emperor of the French, during his residence in New-York. Mr. STEWART defends LOUIS NAPOLEON from the charges of loose conduct which have been brought against him, and bears testimony to the uniform dignity of his character; adding, that these [illegible] reflections upon the character of the Emperor [illegible] to the conduct of a second Prince BONAPARTE who lived here at the same period with LOUIS NAPOLEON:

GENTLEMEN: My attention has been called to an article in your journal of the 18th ultimo, in which my name is introduced in connection with the [illegible] in 1837, of the present Emperor of the French, and statements and opinions of mine in regard to the character he sustained here [illegible] attributed to a prevailing [illegible]. The publicity thus given to the [illegible] of the reputation of this gentleman at that period must be my apology for this communication, and for the request that, in justice to the personage concerned, the National Intelligencer may become the channel of a brief statement of the [illegible] had of correct knowledge in the case, and of the belief, based upon them, which I entertain.

LOUIS NAPOLEON, after having been a prisoner of State for some months on board a French man-of-war, was set at liberty on our shores at Norfolk, in the early Spring of 1837. He came immediately to New-York, as the point at which he could be put most speedily in communication with his friends in Europe. Either on the day or the day but one after his arrival I was led to call upon him, not as the bearer of an illustrious name, or the inheritor of an imperial title, but as a stranger and an exile, without a personal friend in the country, or a letter of introduction. I was the more readily induced to this from representations made to me by a near relative, in whose family he had already passed an evening, of the deep interest his appearance and whole manner had excited in those who then met him. The call was reciprocated with a promptness and cordiality I had not anticipated, and in a very brief period led to an intercourse which was almost daily for some two months, and which ended only when we parted from each other on the [illegible] on board the packet which returned him to Europe.

The association was not that of hours only, but of days, and on one occasion at least, of days in succession, and was characterized by a freedom of conversation on a great variety of topics that could scarce fail, under the ingenuousness and frankness of his manner, to put me in possession of his views, principles, and feelings upon most points that give insight to character. I never heard a sentiment from him and never witnessed a feeling that could detract from his honor and purity as a man or his dignity as a prince; on the contrary, I often had occasion to admire the lofty thoughts and exalted conceptions which seemed more to occupy his mind.

His favorite topics when we were alone were his uncle, the Emperor, his mother, and others of his immediate family, in whom he had been deeply interested; his own relations to France by birth and imperial registry; the inducements which led to the attempted revolution at Strasbourg, the causes of its failure, and his chief support under the mortification of the result—"the will of God," (to use his own words,) "through a direct interposition of Providence; the time had not yet come."

He seemed ever to feel, that his personal destiny was indissolubly linked with France; or, as his mother, HORTENSE, expressed it in her will, "to know his position;" and the enthusiasm with which at times he gave utterance to his aspirations for the prosperity, the happiness, and the honor of his country, and to the high purposes which he designed to accomplish for her as a ruler, uttered, in words, voice and manner, as positive consequence. Had I taken notes of some of these conversations, they would be considered now, when his visions of power and earthly glory are realized, scarcely less epigrammatic and elevated in thought, or, as related to himself, less prophetic, than many which have been recorded from the lips of the exile of St. Helena.

He was winning in the [illegible] of his amiability, often playful in spirit and manner, and warm in his affections. He was a most fondly attached son, and seemed to idolize his mother. When speaking of her the intonations of his voice and his whole manner were often as gentle and tender as those of a woman. It had been his purpose to spend a year in making the tour of the United States, that he might have a better knowledge of our institutions and observe for himself the practical workings of our political system. With this expectation, he consulted me and others as to the arrangement of the route of travel, so as to visit the different sections of the Union at the most desirable seasons. But his plans were suddenly changed by intelligence of the serious illness of Queen HORTENSE, or, as then styled, the Duchess of St. Leu, at her castle in Switzerland. I was dining with him the day the letter conveying this information was received. Recognizing the writing on the envelope, as it was handed to him at table, he hastily broke the seal, and had scarce glanced over half a page before he exclaimed, "My mother is ill; I must go to her. Instead of a tour of the States, I shall take the next packet for England. I will apply for passports to the continent at every embassy in London, and, if unsuccessful, will make my way to her without them." This he did, and [illegible] in time to console by his presence the dying hours of the ex-Queen and to receive in his bosom her last sigh.

After such opportunities of knowing much of the mind and heart and general character of LOUIS NAPOLEON, it was with great surprise that I, for the first time, read, in a distant part of the world, when he had become an Emperor, representations in the public journals of his life in New-York, (and in New-Orleans, too, though he was never there,) which would induce a belief that he had been, when here, little better than a vagabond—low in his associations, intemperate in his indulgences, and dissipated in his habits. In both eating and drinking he was, so far as I observed, abstemious rather than self-indulgent. I repeatedly breakfasted, dined and supped in his company, and never knew him to partake of anything stronger in drink than the light wines of France and Germany, and of these in great moderation. I have been with him early and late, unexpectedly as well as by appointment, and never saw reason for the slightest suspicion of any irregularity in his habits.

It has been said, notwithstanding, that his character was so notorious that he was not received in society and made no respectable acquaintances. If during his brief stay in the City, at a period of the year when general entertainments are not usual, he was not met in the self-constituted [illegible] of the metropolis, it was from his own choice. Within the week of his arrival cards and invitations were left for him at his hotel. As a reason for declining to accept the last, he told me he had no wish to appear in what is called society, but added:

"There are, however, individuals resident in New-York whose acquaintance I should be happy to make. Mr. WASHINGTON IRVING is one. I have read his works, and admire him both as a writer and a man, and would take great pleasure in meeting him. Chancellor KENT is another. I have studied his Commentaries, think highly of them, and regard him as the first of your Jurists. I would be happy to know him personally."

He did make the acquaintance both of Mr. IRVING and the Chancellor, and enjoyed the hospitality of the one at Sunnyside and of the other at his residence in town. He saw some of the best French society of the city; and, familiar with the historic names of New-York, availed himself of the proffered civilities of such families as the HAMILTONS, the GRIFFINS, the LIVINGSTONS, and others of like position. It is not true, therefore, that he was not received in society and had no acquaintances of respectability. He visited in some of our first families in social position, and was entertained by some of our most distinguished citizens.

It is said that he was without means, and lived on loans which he never repaid. This is simply absurd. I am under the impression that his private fortune was then unimpaired, and beyond the reach of the French Government; but, if this were not the case, his mother's wealth was ample, and his drafts upon her for any amount would have been promptly honored. I doubt not that funds were waiting his arrival, or, if not, were readily at his command.

LOUIS NAPOLEON may have had some associations in New-York of which I was ignorant; and he, like DICKENS and other distinguished strangers, may have carried his observations, under the protection of the police, to scenes in which I would not have accompanied him. If he did I never heard of it, and have [illegible] no reason to [illegible] was the fact. But that he was an [illegible] has been publicly reported, of drinking saloons and oyster cellars, gambling houses, and places of worse repute, I do not believe. I can recall to my recollection no young man of the world [illegible] I have ever met, who, in what [illegible] elevation of mind and [illegible] of bearing, would have been less at home than he in such associations.

There was, however, in New-York, at the same time and for about the same period, a Prince BONAPARTE who was, I have reason to think, of a very different character. His antecedents in Europe had not been favorable, and his reputation here was not good. He, too, was in exile, but not for a political offence. He may not have been received into society, and may have had low associations. I met him, but from this impression, formed no acquaintance with him. For the same reason the intercourse between him and his cousin was infrequent and formal. All that has been said and published of the one may be true of the other; and, in the search for reminiscences of the sojourn in New-York of LOUIS NAPOLEON, on his elevation to a throne, fifteen years afterwards, it is not difficult to believe that those ignorant of the presence here at the same time of two persons of the same name and same title may have confounded the acts and character of the one with the other. This, I doubt not, is the fact, and that, however general and firmly established the impression to the contrary may be, the reproach of a disreputable life here does not justly attach itself to him, who is now confessedly the most able, the most fortunate, and the most [illegible] in Europe.

C. S. STEWART, U. S. Navy.

The St. Louis Republican of the 11th inst. states that the freight steamer [illegible] Bates, had struck a snag in the Missouri River, about one mile below Augusta, and sunk in eight feet of water. The Bates was a new boat, and this was her first trip. She cost $30,000, and was insured for $24,000.

[illegible]

A female child, apparently about six months old, was found on Monday evening by a policeman of the First Ward, in the doorway of the dwelling No. 15 Broadway. [illegible] The last time [illegible] she was requested to leave before [illegible] She then went away; but [illegible] to be taken care of by [illegible]

PETER FUNK AGAIN.

David [illegible], of Ohio, wanting to purchase a good watch at a low price, went into Peter Funk's auction store in Broadway, near Fulton-street, yesterday morning. A [illegible] gold watch, four-holes jeweled, [illegible] was put up, and soon knocked down to Mr. W[illegible] for the sum of $70. He paid the money, took the watch, and left, but learning soon after that he had been swindled, he returned to the shop to get his money back. [illegible] to the Mayor's office and told his experience at a Broadway auction shop. Justice [illegible] sent an officer with Mr. W[illegible] to try to get his money back.

CHARGE OF GRAND LARCENY.

Conrad [illegible] and Julius Richards were brought before Justice [illegible] yesterday, charged with stealing a case of boots and shoes, valued at $40, from C. W. & T. S. [illegible] of No. 150 Greenwich-street. The goods, it is said, were found in their possession. The prisoners were committed for a hearing.

Miscellaneous.

A CHAPTER OF FATAL ACCIDENTS.

George H. [illegible], aged 15 years, and a native of Martha's Vineyard, Mass., was killed, on Monday evening, on board the ship C. [illegible], lying at the foot of Pier No. 17, East River, by the falling of a boom upon him.

Patrick D[illegible], aged 16 years, and a native of Ireland, died at the City Hospital, yesterday, from the effects of a gunshot wound received accidentally, on the 27th of February last, at Kingston, N. J., whither he had gone a gunning with a companion from this City.

John Fraser, a native of Scotland, and aged 21 years, died also at the Hospital, yesterday, from a fracture of the leg and other injuries, received by being run over on the Erie Railroad, at Paterson, N. J., a few days since. The deceased was employed as a clerk in Nelson & Co.'s bookstore, No. 151 Nassau-st., and was by that firm sent to Paterson, with another clerk, on business connected with the establishment. He attempted to leave the train before it had completely stopped, and in doing so slipped and fell. [illegible] mutilating it badly. He was removed to the New-York Hospital, where he [illegible] till yesterday, when he died. He resided with his brother at No. 37 City Hall-place.

William Calvin fell from a cart in Fourteenth-street on Monday afternoon; the wheels of the vehicle (which was loaded with furniture) passed over his body. He was removed to the City Hospital, where he died the same night. The deceased was 34 years of age. At the time of the accident he was superintending the removal of his mother's household furniture from No. 23½ Fifth-street to Port Morris.

James Oldworth, aged [illegible] years, died yesterday at the City Hospital from the effect of burns received by the upsetting of a pan of burning pitch which he was carrying from a shop in Washington-street on board a ship. The Coroner's Jury rendered that "the deceased died of delirium [illegible] from burns accidentally received while carrying a pan of pitch."

YET ALIVE.

The German woman, Catharine Holmeyer, who was so dangerously stabbed in No. 36 Monroe-street, on Monday afternoon, by her discarded lover, Chas. Weller, is still alive, and the prospects of her recovery are becoming more hopeful. She has not been removed from the house where the occurrence took place.

TRIED TO HANG HIMSELF.

A [illegible] named John McGinnis was arrested on Monday night by the Sixth Ward Police, because he attempted to hang himself. Believing him insane, they locked him up in their Station-house for safe-keeping.

The Schooner Budlers Mystery.

UNITED STATES COMMISSIONER'S OFFICE.

Before G. W. Morton, Esq.

The following evidence was taken yesterday:

Captain Arnold was recalled and testified that the Captain and mate have never returned to the schooner since the time she anchored off City Island; the vessel had but one boat and that hung on the davits.

Daniel Quimby testified that he resided at White Plains, Westchester County, and knows the prisoner; had a conversation with him in the sleigh; asked him about the vessel, and how much money he had got, and who it belonged to; he said $60 and it belonged to the Captain; he said he had two watches which belonged to the mate; asked him where the Captain and mate were gone; he said a boat came alongside the day before and the Captain and mate went away in her; asked him how he came by the money; he said when the vessel began to sink he began to gather what clothes he could find in the cabin and the money was in the clothes; asked him next about the staterooms; he said they were locked and he did not break them open; he said there was no other persons on board the schooner but the Captain and mate, and himself, Willis.

The examination was further adjourned for one week, and the prisoner remanded.

UNITED STATES MARSHAL'S OFFICE.

AN IGNORANT CELESTIAL.

Captain [illegible], who has just returned home from the Celestial Empire, was arrested and held to bail in $2,500, for a very novel offence. The chief of the customs of the ship was a Chinaman, and he having offended the Captain, the latter cut off poor Chinaman's long black cue, or appendage to his head. To cut off this is deemed in China the greatest kind of offence, and the poor fellow, when he made his case known, was as much affected as if he lost his fortune. He said he never dare return home again.

BREAKING A SEAL AND ABSTRACTING MONEY.

Albert Lombard was arrested for taking a letter from the Post-Office which contained $40, and was addressed to Augustus Lombard. He was held for examination.

EVIDENCE AGAINST FILLIBUSTERS.

Three witnesses arrived yesterday from Philadelphia who are to give evidence against the parties arrested last week on board the steamship Orizaba.

DEATH OF AN EX-CLERK.

James W. Metcalf, formerly Clerk of U. S. Courts and Commissioner, died yesterday.

Farmers' Club, American Institute.

No. 351 BROADWAY, TUESDAY NOON, April 15, 1856.

ROBERT L. PELL, Esq., President, in the Chair.

SOMETHING FOR WINE-DRINKERS.

The Secretary read a paper on the Wines of Oporto, and the disease affecting the grape-vine, from the Agricultural Bureau of the Patent Office of the United States. A letter from the Consulate, dated Oporto, Jan. 28, 1856, describes the pestilence, and states that it made its appearance early in March, and spread with great rapidity over the whole kingdom. The writer expresses his conviction that not a basket of good healthy fruit was produced in the wine districts last year. In the district of Douro in ordinary years they have 1,190 pipes, in 1855 only 260 pipes. The export of wine in 1855 to all the world was 34,866 pipes. Of these, 698 were sent to the United States.

A DYNAMOMETER.

Mr. W. F. LEONARD exhibited a model of his Dynamometer, a contrivance to test the draft of plows at plowing matches. It is also recommended for determining the speed of ships, and for various other purposes.

W. F. H[illegible] presented a folio fasciculus of designs for country seats, edited by G[illegible] and B[illegible] of this City. They are very beautiful, and include those of Mr. H. SHELDON, of Tarrytown, Mr. HOSSON, on the Hudson, and several others, which have either been built or are in progress. The work is to be continued, each number to contain twelve lithographs, with appropriate letter-press. Mr. B[illegible] was present, but from his ignorance of English, Dr. H[illegible] spoke in his behalf.

ADULTERATIONS.

The President then concluded the paper upon adulterated drugs, the first part of which was read at a previous meeting. He referred to four; namely—Powdered jalap, powdered ipecacuanha, powdered opium, and powdered scammony. The latter two are liable to adulteration in the countries where they are produced, and powdered roots as well as other substances are liable to gross adulteration by the drug grinder, and next by the retailer at home. In reference to opium, adulteration is not harmless, inasmuch as it leaves the dose uncertain. Sometimes drugs are adulterated for the sake of color, with poisonous materials, which violently modify their action. Snuff is apt to produce paralysis when colored with chromate of lead. Many other illustrations were given. The microscope is useful in detecting adulterations, especially that of coffee with chicory.

In conclusion, he proposed that the American Institute should issue a Commission for the examination of adulterated drugs and food. He stated that the materials of his paper were taken from the report of the British Commission, and he thought a similar Commission as urgently necessary on this as on the other side the Atlantic.

The subject of the day was here taken up.

OATS.

In 1850 the total produce was 128,071,341 bushels; in 1854 the produce was 146,584,179 bushels—showing an increase of 22,512,838 bushels. The produce in 1855 was near 160,000,000 bushels, which, at 37½ cents, would be worth $60,000,000.

The Chairman read a lengthy paper on the culture of oats, from which we gathered the following items: Greater quantities are now grown than formerly, in consequence of the increased number of horses. He described the several varieties. Some think oats equal to barley, on medium soils. Oats [illegible] after barley. He has usually sown timothy [illegible] with or after the oats, and though not considered good farming, he had always succeeded well with it.

Oats are thought to degenerate by being grown too long on one kind of soil, and this more so than any other grain. The variety may be changed.

After some further remarks, not important to the public, the Club adjourned for one week.

MARKET REPORTS.

Wholesale Produce Markets.

Reported exclusively for the New-York Daily Times.

WEDNESDAY, April 16, 1856.

The prices given in our reports from week to week are the average wholesale prices obtained by producers, and not those at which produce is sold from the market. The variations in prices refer chiefly to the qualities of the articles.

The receipts of Potatoes from New-Jersey are very large. Northern have not yet arrived in any amount, as the river is but just open. No Nova Scotias in market, but a cargo is daily expected. The Potato market is reported very dull, except for early Junes, which are in good request for seed, with a short supply. Four barrels of new Bermudas arrived by the Princess Royal on Saturday, and sold at wholesale for $7. The same brig brought 500 boxes of Tomatoes. These are coming in quite freely. They are six-quart boxes, and wholesale for 75 cents ℔ box.

Russia Turnips are plentiful and cheap. Parsnips glut the market, and go slow at our quoted prices.

Apples are lower for the same qualities, though choice barrels bring good prices. A hundred barrels of mixed sorts, in good condition, from Palmyra, N. Y., sold on the dock yesterday for $2 25 ℔ bbl.

Cranberries are a little more plentiful, and sell at lower rates.

Poultry is still quite scarce, and sells readily at our quotations.

Eggs come in in large quantities—over 600 barrels came in yesterday—principally from Philadelphia. They retail by the single barrel at 9@9¼ for 12½c.

Butter and Cheese are arriving in larger supply, and prices are declining materially. New Butter, of Spring make, is far plentier than usual at this season. Makers are feeding corn and other grain to their cows, and turning it into butter.

Markets—Carefully Reported for N. Y. Daily Times

TUESDAY, April 15—6 P. M.

ASHES—Have not varied much, the supply and sales thereof being still light, at $8 25@$8 37½ for Pearls, and $6 62½ for Pots, ℔ 100 lbs.

BEESWAX—There were 2,000 lbs. American Yellow disposed of at former rates.

CANDLES—Sperm are in fair request and are firm. A moderate inquiry exists for Adamantine, but these are pretty freely offered, and are languid in price. Mould Tallow are unaltered.

COFFEE—The demand is brisker, and prices, though not quotably higher, evince renewed vigor. The sales since our last include about 6,489 pkgs. Java (an entire cargo) at private bargain; 300 pkgs. do., in lots, at 14½c.; 150 bags Laguayra at 12c.@12½c.; 500 Rio at 11¼c.@12c.; and 2,226 do., by auction, at from 10½c.@12¾c., average 11¾c. ℔ lb.

COPPER—The market is not very active, but prices are tolerably well sustained.

COTTON—Presents no really new feature. The inquiry is good, and prices are firm. Operators are desirous to get their correspondence per Cambria. The sales since Saturday add up about 7,500 bales, at our quotations:

FEATHERS—We heard that 3,000 lbs. prime Live Geese were purchased, to go out of this market, on private terms.

FLOUR AND MEAL—The market for State and Western Flour is still unsettled. The amount offering for sale exceeds the requirements of purchasers, and as factors are anxious to dispose of their supplies, prices strongly favor buyers. The sales since our last embrace about 7,000 bbls., in lots, mainly at prices within the annexed range:

Superfine No. 2	$5 25	@	$5 75

Canadian continues in slack demand at drooping prices—the sales since our last having been confined to about 600 bbls. Superfine to best Extra at $6 87½@$9 ℔ bbl. Southern rules quiet and languid. The sales since our last amount to 1,800 bbls. Mixed to Extra, at $6 87½@$8 50 ℔ bbl. Rye Flour is plenty and depressed, $4@$5 for Fine and Superfine, ℔ bbl. Corn Meal is selling slowly at $3 25 @$3 31¼ for Jersey and $3 62½@$3 75 for Brandywine, ℔ bbl. Buckwheat Flour is dull and nominal.

FRUIT—The private trade is very limited at about old quotations. Sales were made, by auction, of 2,070 boxes Sicily Lemons at $1 [illegible], and 5,780 boxes do., Oranges at $1 87½@$2 81¼ ℔ box.

GRAIN—Wheat, of desirable quality, is scarce and wanted. Sales transpired to-day of only about 3,800 bushels White at $2, for prime Genesee, deliverable at Newburg; $1 97 for do. Western, and $1 91 for good Southern, ℔ bushel. Rye is plenty and heavy. 22,500 bushels were obtained in part at 98c.@95c. ℔ bushel. Barley is inactive at former figures. There is not much of it here. Oats rule quiet and languid at 42c.@46c. for Ohio and Chicago; 39c.@42c. for State; and 36c.@39c. for Jersey, ℔ bushel. Corn is in better request, and is a shade firmer, with sales reported since our last of about 47,000 bushels mixed, Yellow and White Southern at, according to quality, from 60c.@67c. ℔ bushel, the latter (an extreme) price having been procured for a very handsome lot of Southern White.

HAY—We heard that 400 bales River were procured, to-day, at 87½c.@$1 for shipment, and $1 12½@$1 37½ for local use, ℔ 100 lbs.

HIDES—Are more freely offered, and as the demand is checked by the high claims of owners, prices are not so well sustained,—though no quotable change has occurred, as yet.

HOPS—There were 40 bales taken at 7c.@10. ℔ lb.

IRON—Sales of 130 tons Scotch Pig were reported at $35 25@$35 50, usual terms, ℔ ton.

LATHS—Remain as last noticed.

LEAD—Rules quiet, yet firm.

LEATHER—Domestic tanned Sole is rather plentier, but the inquiry therefor is lively, and prices continue strong. Other kinds are unaltered.

LIME—Appears scarce and quiet at about yesterday's quotations.

MOLASSES—Sales have been reported since our last of about 200 bbls. New-Orleans at 45c.@47c.; some Porto Rico, in hhds., at 40c.@44c., and Cuba Muscovado at 36c, ℔ gal.

NAVAL STORES—Crude Turpentine is in fair supply and is moderately inquired for, mostly at $3 12½ ℔ 280 lbs. Spirits do. is salable and steady, at 38c.@39c. ℔ gallon. Some holders claim a shade higher rates. Tar is quiet and depressed at $1 75@$3 25 ℔ bbl. Resin is improving, being now in request at $1 75@$1 80 for common, ℔ 310 lbs. delivered, and $2 50@$2 75 for No. 1 and white, ℔ 280 lbs.

OILS—Whale and Sperm are quiet, yet quoted firm. Red Oil is dull and drooping. About 300 baskets Olive changed hands at former rates. Linseed is pretty freely taken, in lots from store, at 81c.@82c. ℔ gallon. Large parcels are partially neglected, and are not worth over 80c. ℔ gallon. Lard Oil is plentier and is procurable at 90c.@ 93c. ℔ gallon.

PROVISIONS—Pork is in good request, and is on the advance. The sales since our last reach about 1,250 bbls., in lots; $16 75@$16 87½ for Mess, and $15 50@$15 62½ for Prime, ℔ bbl. Dressed Hogs are dull and nominal. Cut Meats are heavy and obtainable at 7½c.@8c. for Hams, and 8¾c.@9c. for Shoulders ℔ lb. Bacon is in light supply and fair demand, at 9c.@9½c., as to quality, ℔ lb. Lard is plenty and heavy, the transactions including 400 bbls. and tcs. Fair to Strictly Prime, at 10c.@10¼c., mostly within the range, and some Prime in kegs at 11¼c. ℔ lb. Beef continues abundant and in slack demand at drooping prices. The sales since our last were confined to 200 bbls., at $9 50 @$10 for Country Prime, at $9@$10 50 for do. Mess, and $10 [illegible] for repacked do. ℔ bbl. Prime Mess Beef commands $17@$20 ℔ tce. Beef Hams are in fair demand, at prices ranging from $15@$17 ℔ bbl. Butter is plenty and selling moderately, at 15c. @25c. for Ohio; 18c.@25c. for Common to very good State; 20c.@30c. for Prime and choice do., ℔ lb. Cheese is in ample supply and quiet, at 5c.@10c. for poor to choice, ℔ lb.

RICE—There were 200 tcs. obtained at $4@$4 75 ℔ 100 lbs. The latest Southern accounts strengthen the confidence of factors, and these are less desirous to realize. A late issue of the Savannah Republican contains the following: "We learn from planters that the recent freshets and cold weather have interfered materially with the planting of the rice crop on the Ogeechee and Altamaha Rivers, especially on the upper and inland plantations. Generally the greater part of the crop is put in the ground during the month of March, and certainly by the middle of April, unless the operations of the planter are suspended by freshets or other causes beyond his control, in which event the work of planting is sometimes continued at intervals through April and May, even into June. Thus far but a small portion of the upper rice lands on the streams above mentioned has been planted. We hear of some complaint on the Savannah, but not to the same extent. It is probable, though we have no information to that effect, that the same causes have conspired to retard the operations of the planters on the Carolina rivers. We understand there was ice at this place last week."

SALT—Is more abundant, but is held rather above the views of buyers, and is quiet.

SEEDS—Clover is now generally held at 16½c.@17c. ℔ lb. There is very little of it remaining unsold. Flax is unchanged. Calcutta Linseed has fallen to $1 85 ℔ bushel, and is dull thereat. Timothy rules about the same.

SPICES—Continue quiet at about former quotations.

SUGARS—Are in good demand at full prices, with sales since our last of about 1,200 hhds. at 6¾c.@7¼c. for Cuba, 7½c.@8c. for Porto Rico, and 7¼c.@7¾c. for New-Orleans, ℔ lb. 330 boxes Havana brought 7½c.@8¼c. ℔ lb. The latest mail advices from the South are quite discouraging in regard to the prospects of the growing crop in Louisiana. The Donaldsonville Vigilant, of the 3d instant, says: "From the assurances we receive from planters of the vicinity, we incline to believe that the sugar crop of 1856–57 will be shorter than that of 1855–56. Much of the cane is injured by the cold and the rain, and in many cases the ground has been so wet, at the time of planting, as to leave little hope that even the small quantity planted will come up. The 'ratoons' are also said to be in very bad condition." The Point Coupee Echo, of the 5th instant, says: "From all sections of our parish, we hear of nothing but the most discouraging accounts of the coming sugar crop. Owing to the utter worthlessness of the stubble, and a defect in a large quantity of the seed cane, many of our planters will not be able to grind at all the coming season, and not a few will scarcely make sufficient cane for seed for '57. Many, foreseeing the inevitable failure, have plowed up the old stubble, and in its stead put in large crops of cotton and corn." The Franklin Journal, of the 3d instant, says: "The recent dry weather has crusted the surface of the earth so as to check vegetation, and our planters now want a slight shower to assist the cane out of the ground. It is hardly possible to estimate the amount of damage done to the seed cane and the ratoon by the severe freezes of the past Winter. We are fearful the injury is greater than has been anticipated."

TALLOW—Sales of 15,000 lbs. prime brought former rates.

TOBACCO—Is in fair request, and is steady. The sales since Friday include 36 hhds. Kentucky and Maysville at 10c.@14c.; 91 bales Havana, (part in bond,) on private terms; 214 bales Yara at 34½c.@35c.; 75 cases Seedleaf at 10c., and 11 cases Florida at 20c. ℔ lb.

WHISKY—There were 300 bbls. Ohio and Prison disposed of 25c.@25½c. ℔ gallon.

FREIGHTS—Continued quiet and languid. For Liverpool, Cotton ⅛d.@3-16d. ℔ lb.; Flour, 1s. 4½d.@1s. 6d.; ℔ bbl; Grain 4½d.@5d. ℔ bushel; heavy goods 22s. 6d.@ 25s. ℔ ton. For London, Flour 1s. 10½d.@2s. ℔ bbl.; Grain 5½d.@6½d. ℔ bushel; Provisions 2s. 6d. ℔ bbl.; heavy goods 25s.@30s. ℔ ton. For other ports, the business was limited and rates were depressed.

Spirit of the Trade Circulars.

A. F. DE LUZE'S FLOUR AND GRAIN CIRCULAR.

Per Asia.] NEW-YORK, Thursday, April 15, 1856.

FLOUR—State and Western—Since the departure of the Canada's mail, 8th inst., we have experienced a very heavy market. With continued unfavorable advices, successively at hand ℔ steamers Washington and Cambria, but little inquiry has existed for export, the home trade having likewise purchased sparingly. This, in connection with the opening of Hudson River navigation, has occasioned a gradual decline in prices of common and medium qualities, of about 37½c. ℔ bbl. A better inquiry prevails at the decline—in part for export. Clearances from New-York, from April 7 to April 14, both inclusive: To Liverpool, 1,605 bbls.; British Provinces, 4,704 bbls.; West Indies, 1,642 bbls.; South America, 312 bbls.; East Indies, 265 bbls.

WHEAT—The market has been without animation during the week. For export little or nothing has been done—the orders being limited below current rates. Moderate purchases have been made for milling purposes at about the last quotations. Of good and prime parcels the supply is very limited, and such qualities are pretty firmly held; other descriptions being in better supply and in less request, are very dull and unsettled in price. Ohio and Michigan White, $1 75@$1 82 ℔ 60 lbs.; Missouri White, $1 85@$1 97; Southern White, $1 65@$1 92; do. Red, $1 65@$1 75; Genesee White, $1 90@$2; Canadian White, $1 75@$1 95. Clearances from New-York, from April 7 to April 14, both inclusive: To Liverpool 20,965 bushels.

INDIAN CORN—With a decline in freights, a fair business has been done for export since the 8th inst. Prices have slightly fluctuated, closing at the following quotations: Southern Yellow, 64c.@65c. ℔ 56 lbs.; do. White, 64c.@67c.; do. Mixed, 61c.@63c.; Western Mixed, 60c.@ 65c. Clearances from New-York, from April 7, to April 14, both inclusive:—To Liverpool, 73,729 bushels. Antwerp, 5,048 bushels. Bremen, 20 bushels. South America, 7,896 bushels. West Indies, 1,465 bushels.

RYE—Much firmness was manifested in the market until within a day or two, when, with a falling off in the export inquiry and a larger supply offering, prices receded. The closing rate is 93c.@95c. ℔ 56 lbs.—with considerable sales to-day at the decline. Clearances from New-York, from April 7 to April 14, both inclusive: To Hamburg, 20,368 bush.; Antwerp, 12,896.; Bremen, 7,232.; Archangel, via Hamburg, 9,071.

FREIGHTS—Have receded—To London, Flour 2s. ℔ bbl.; Grain 5½d.@6d. ℔ bush. Liverpool, 1s. 6d.; 4½d. Glasgow, 2s. 6d.; 7½d.@8d.; Havre, 65c.@75c.; 18c.@19c. Antwerp, 3s.; 8½d.@9d.

In the U. S. Senate, yesterday, a bill was reported from the Post-Office Committee to encourage new steam navigation lines to provide for the transportation of mails by sea. In consequence of the illness of Mr. CLAY, who was entitled to the floor, the debate on the admission of Kansas was postponed. In the House, a bill [illegible] obtaining of proof in claims [illegible] for horses and other [illegible] military service was passed. The Senate amendment to the Deficiency Appropriation bill appropriating $800,000 for continuing the Washington Aqueduct, was rejected.

The United States Mail steamship Baltic, with European advices four days later than those brought by the Cambria, is now due at this port. The instructions lately given to the Collins steamers to cross the Banks south of 43 degrees will probably make a difference of some twenty-four hours in the time of the passage from Europe.

The Mail steamship George Law with a fortnight's later news from California, New-Granada and the South Pacific is considerably over due at this port. It is surmised that the George Law has touched at San Juan, Nicaragua, which circumstance would account for her detention.

The State Legislature.

No act of Governor CLARK's administration has elicited more uniform or more emphatic approval than his refusal to summon an extra session of the Legislature. It is quite true that, in many respects, the public interest suffers greatly from the refusal of the Assembly to pass many bills of great importance to the State Government—but these evils are far less than we may reasonably anticipate would be inflicted on the State by an extra session of the Legislature. Probably there was never before gathered at Albany so corrupt an Assembly as that of last session. The many good, upright and intelligent men whom it contained were utterly overborne by the ignorant, reckless and venal [illegible], for their own selfish purposes, every movement that looked toward the public good, and were determined to end the session when they found it could no longer be made subservient to their cupidity. If men who know the facts chose to give the public the benefit of their knowledge, there would probably be no difficulty in sending more than one of the [illegible] members of that body to the penitentiary, for crimes committed in connection with the discharge of their official duties. For certain offences, one of them is already under indictment.

The bill making appropriation for the support of Government was not passed;—but as all dues for official services are payable quarterly,—and as the present fiscal year for which appropriations have already been made, does not expire until the first of October next, the embarrassments arising from this source can easily be overcome. The failure of the Supply Bill,—upon which the charitable institutions of the State are dependent, is a serious blow to them:—but they will probably find no difficulty in making temporary loans to supply the deficiency.

There has been a general impression that the failure of the Legislature to apportion the State into Senatorial districts was a more serious matter,—and that an extra session would be absolutely necessary in order to make this apportionment. We are inclined to think that this opinion is erroneous. The Constitution says that the apportionment "shall" be made by the Legislature "at the first session after the return of every enumeration" of the inhabitants:—and this clause unquestionably made it the duty of the Legislature to make the apportionment at its late session. But it was not done:—and if a strict construction of the Constitution is insisted upon, a compliance with this requisition is now impossible:—for an extra session would not be its "first session, after the returns of the enumeration" was made. It seems to us very clear that the duty enjoined by the Constitution upon this Legislature may be, and must be, performed by the next. Such a course will certainly be quite as manifest a compliance with the Constitution as would the apportionment of the State at an extra session of the Legislature.

We are confident the whole State will approve the Governor's determination not, under any circumstances, to call an extra session of the Legislature. With such an Assembly as the one now in office, no public interest would be safe.

Walker and Costa Rica.

Gen. WALKER has already commenced the fulfillment of his "destiny," by attacking Costa Rica. We do not place full reliance upon the accounts which represent this State as the aggressive party in the conflict which is now in progress. We believe that when the history of the affair shall be fully exposed, it will be found that the alleged declaration of war by Costa Rica is either not a genuine document, or that it was caused by some proceeding on WALKER's part clearly evincing his belligerent purposes. It will be remembered that the war, for which responsibility is [illegible] upon Costa Rica, begins by the [illegible] of that State from Nicaragua. [illegible] a successful resistance to the bold and desperate men who have invaded her Territory. The Government has commenced, and from having recognized and provided for her debts [illegible]. In these [illegible] of war it will have an advantage over the army of the Fillibusters. But the valor of his men, their despair of mercy or escape in case of failure, their [illegible] and their skill in the use of [illegible], give WALKER a superiority over his adversary, which must, it appears to us, result in his triumph, unless the issue of arms is averted by the interposition of a power which has not yet appeared in the field.

The letters addressed by Minister WHEELER to his friends do not support the accounts published in the newspapers, of the condition of WALKER's army, nor do they make any mention of the alleged combination of the other States against him in the controversy with Costa Rica. Those letters, indeed, as we are informed upon competent authority, present quite an opposite state of facts. Mr. WHEELER asserts that WALKER's army is well supplied with every article that can contribute to its efficiency, that it is well officered, and that the health of the troops is good. It is true that Mr. WHEELER is an interested witness, having aided to raise WALKER to his present position and having incurred the disapprobation of his own government for recognizing the administration of his friend, without instructions and against the presumed wishes and the well-known policy of his superiors. But being in a position to know the facts on which he writes, the testimony of the minister must be admitted to have some value.

The power and disposition of our Government to prevent the reinforcement of the fillibuster army of Nicaragua, by recruits from the United States, have been fully tested. The attempt has been virtually abandoned; within a single week more than five hundred men left New-York and New-Orleans, of whom at least three-fourths may be regarded as volunteers for WALKER. Not being organized in military form, they could not be interfered with, and the number of those who will follow will certainly not be limited by the action of this Government. With this source of supply open to him, the last want likely to be felt by WALKER is want of men.

Unless prevented by foreign intervention, the invasion of Costa Rica must, it seems to us, be successful. The conquest and annexation of Granada, San Salvador, Guatemala, Honduras, Yucatan and the Mosquito Coast, will follow in due course.

The consummation of these purposes will be followed by certain consequences, among which may be reckoned the following:

Costa Rica is a well governed State, which, during most of its separate existence, has been under British protection. Its debt is held in London. Its coffee and sugar estates are doubtless closely identified with the moneyed and commercial interests of that great capital—the country is well cultivated, and has been peaceful and prosperous, while all the rest of Central America has been torn by civil conflict, and desolated by the furious strife of faction and castes. Is it likely that Great Britain will consent that this fair territory shall be added to the domain of fillibustering ambition? The case seems a clear one for British intervention, upon the recognized principles of her policy. And when we consider the position and prospects of the United States, as mingled with the course of events in Central America, it is undeniable that such intervention would not be unprofitable to us, though it might be distasteful to a large portion of our people. In fact, it is perfectly apparent that the consolidation of the projected Walkerian empire will greatly endanger the connection of the western with the middle and eastern divisions of our Republic.

A Hard Job.

The Richmond Whig is laboring, with great zeal, to induce the Democrats to drop all their candidates and ratify, at Cincinnati, the nomination of Mr. FILLMORE! It urges, with great force, that no man whom they can possibly select, will be more reliable in support of Slavery than Mr. F.,—and that any other nomination will only distract and divide the Pro-Slavery Democrats throughout the country. The Whig makes out a strong case;—but the prospects of its success do not seem to be very flattering. Governor WISE will secure his tax on oysters a good while before the Whig persuades the Cincinnati Convention to nominate Mr. FILLMORE. The Richmond Enquirer has not yet given in its adhesion to the scheme.

Southern Views of Slavery.

A correspondent of the Charleston (S. C.) Mercury is discussing the general subject of Abolition, with special reference to the political questions which now divide the country. A Committee, appointed at a Kansas meeting recently held at Charleston, issued an Address, in which the great importance of establishing Slavery in Kansas was urged, upon the ground that it would break the force of the Abolition movement in the Northern States,—inasmuch as that movement was inherently weak, and could not survive such a blow as a defeat in Kansas would inflict upon it. The writer in the Mercury does not coincide in these views. On the contrary, he believes that the fanaticism which demands the Abolition of Slavery, is a growing sentiment,—and that it will eventually obtain complete possession of the Federal Government in this country.

We copy, in another part of this sheet, a portion of the communications in which these views are set forth. They are interesting, not only from the ability with which they are written and the striking character of the opinions expressed, but as indications of the tendency of political speculation in the Slaveholding States. This writer abandons all hope that Slavery can, in the long run, be upheld and protected by the general Government of the Union. That Government, in his opinion, must eventually be in the hands of the opponents of Slavery;—and he deems it folly, therefore, to rely upon its support. What course the South ought to adopt, he does not very clearly state;—but it is evident that he looks forward to Revolution as the means by which the Slaveholders are to resist the natural tendencies of time and the development of opinion. What success would attend such an endeavor, any one of [illegible] history will readily perceive.

The views of this writer are in the main those which were always held and taught by Mr. CALHOUN. They will always find advocates among the most daring and speculative of Southern politicians, but will never be accepted as a basis of action by the great mass of the Southern people.

The Slave-Trade.

The Boston Atlas states that Capt. CHARLES KEHMAN, who, in the Summer of 1854, was sentenced in that city to imprisonment in the County Jail for three years, and to pay a fine of $1,000, for being concerned in the fitting out of the schooner Glamorgan for the slave-trade, has received an unconditional pardon from the President of the United States. The reasons for this exercise of clemency are not stated. We trust that they are not based upon the theory, which is now openly advocated at the South, that the slave-trade is a legitimate branch of commerce, and ought not to be discouraged, and still less treated as criminal, by the Federal Government. President PIERCE can hardly be prepared to go so far as this, in his subserviency to Pro-Slavery views,—even for the sake of compassing the Cincinnati nomination.

There is not the slightest doubt that the slave-trade is carried on constantly, from this port, and from others on our coast,—in spite of the stringent laws which are still on our statute-books against it. If it is understood that the Executive clemency is to be extended to this class of offenders, the laws pronouncing the slave-trade piracy may as well be abolished at once.

Louis Napoleon.

We publish in another column an interesting letter from Rev. C. S. STEWART, concerning the private life led by LOUIS NAPOLEON, when he was in this country. So many statements of his poverty, profligacy and general misconduct have been made, that the public generally had settled down into the conviction that he led the life of a reckless and characterless adventurer. Mr. STEWART was one of the few who knew him intimately while here;—and his statements may well be received with full confidence. They are in strict harmony with the uniform tenor of the present Emperor's life in this,—that they show him to have been fully possessed with the conviction that he should at some time succeed to the imperial sway of France. Such a conviction in such a mind, is incompatible with the low profligacy which current rumor has imputed to him.

The statements of Mr. STEWART needed no confirmation, but they are corroborated by a letter in the National Intelligencer yesterday, from General WEBB, who is the "near relative" referred to by the reverend gentleman, at whose house he first met the present Emperor of the French in New-York.

Opera Patronage.

A meeting of the proprietors of the Covent Garden Theatre was held in London a fortnight ago, to determine whether to re-erect the building. Some of the statements and arguments employed are not without interest. Mr. SURMAN, a legal gentleman, representing a majority of the shares, entered into extended remarks upon the conduct of such places, confirming the fact, already more than suspected, that in the support of musical art the aristocracy of the British Capital is quite as derelict as the wealthy orders of our own City. In the lease to Mr. GYE, that gentleman had bound himself to pay over one-seventh of the receipts to the shareholders. Mr. SURMAN remarks, that if the shareholders had been obliged to wait for this pro rata until the manager had collected it from the nobility and gentry who rushed to secure boxes at £300 apiece, they would have serious reason to complain. Mr. GYE uniformly advanced it, confiding in his aristocratic creditors; and that confidence, Mr. SURMAN testified, had not at all been justified by the event. If these fashionable defaulters could be brought to square up, it was the conviction of Mr. GYE's friends that his losses by the burning of the theatre would be quite indemnified.

It is gratifying to know that among the shortcomings of our musical public this precise species of abuse is quite unknown. There is no charge extant, we believe, of season subscribers, and box-holders repudiating their side of the contract, or deferring payments, to the ruin of the management. Failures on the other side are not infrequent, sometimes unavoidable. The throats and tempers of opera singers are peculiarly inflammable; choruses fail to harmonize; orchestras addict themselves to petty imbroglios; and any one of these trifling accidents puts the patience of the season-subscriber to a trying test. Not on that ground, however, does he decline the satisfaction of his debt. Punctuality is the uniform rule; nay, so far does the partiality for art carry a certain laudable few, that they have contributed, we are told, largely and far beyond the requirement of any legal undertaking for the maintenance of opera at our Academy of Music. If the catastrophes of Messrs. LUMLEY and GYE are solely or mainly owing to bad debts of the kind referred to, we safely promise them a better field and the hope of happier fortune in New-York, than they have thus far experienced in London.

It is rumored that the season just inaugurated by Mr. MARETZEK is to be the final experiment with the Academy. They do say that, in the event of its failure, the building is to be turned over to a charitable object, a hospital, we believe—an exchange of singing for sighing, and the mellifluous woes of desolate tenors for the groans of real suffering, that must afford the cynic a text for an original and bitterly caustic commentary. The idea, to use the language of Miss Dorrit's pupil, is decidedly "hospitally." It will not, we trust, be realized. We wish better fortune to Mr. MARETZEK; but, if the wish be fruitless and the event unhappy, we shall think the Academy condemned without a fair trial, unless the rents reserved to stockholders be abandoned, and the doors be opened to the public at the usual theatrical charge. With the present excellent company, and the [illegible] affairs, the experiment would certainly result advantageously.

Musical.

Messrs. MASON and BERGMANN—to whom the musical public is indebted in an unusual degree—gave their first Classical Soirée last evening, in Dodworth's Saloon, before an exceedingly select and intelligent audience. The programme contained, 1. Quartette No. 11 by BEETHOVEN; 2. Ave Maria, (sung by Miss BRAINERD,) by ROBERT FRANZ; 3. Solos by Mr. WILLIAM MASON; 4. Lied by PROCH; 5. Quartette, with piano, by ROBERT SCHUMANN, (op 47.)

This recherché selection was performed with all the admirable skill and delicacy for which the matinées of Messrs. MASON & BERGMANN are remarkable. We have already, when speaking of the latter entertainments, expressed our opinion of the principal items of the programme, and need only now refer to the excellent vocalization of Miss BRAINERD and the solo performances of Mr. MASON. The rapid improvement perceptible in the singing of Miss BRAINERD gives something more than promise of future excellence. Her style is dramatic, and her ambition evidently leads her to cultivate it with assiduity and success. In the two pieces in the programme she was admirable, and merited all the applause bestowed on her.

Mr. WILLIAM MASON played three of his own compositions, all of which were beautiful and artistic. An exquisite "Lullaby" was encored by the audience. It is the most graceful and delightful little thing we have ever heard. Mr. MASON was again encored after the "Etude de Concert," and played his ever fresh and acceptable impromptu, "Silver-spring."

The second soirée will take place on Tuesday evening next, and we earnestly hope that all who appreciate art, and art-progress, will be in attendance.

Concert.

Signor GIULIO,—assisted by Mme. LAGRANGE, Signor MORELLI, ROVERE, MARETZEK, and other members of the Italian Opera—gave a grand Concert at Niblo's Saloon last evening before a large audience. The programme contained selections from the best Italian Operas, and it is needless to say these were executed with faultless skill. Signor BRIGNOLI was to have assisted, but in consequence of an accident, was prevented from doing so. Mme. LAGRANGE volunteered to supply his place, and did so, it is unnecessary to add, in an admirable manner. The Concert was in every respect the most satisfactory one of the season, and we are indebted to Signor GIULIO (who himself sang with skill and unction) for the unusual array of talent it presented. M. GUYON, a pianist, and pupil of THALBERG, played two compositions by that master. M. GUYON is what young ladies would call a nice player, but he lacks the breadth, force and individuality necessary for the Concert room.

Academy of Music.

This establishment opens to-night with VERDI's "Ernani."

NEW-YORK CITY.

About a Poem on Spiritualism.

We dropped in at Stuyvesant Institute last evening to hear "A Poem" on Spiritualism, recited by "A Lady," pursuant to advertisement in the papers, admission free. There were about a hundred and twenty people present. Of the majority, the hair was long, and with many, the beard was flowing. Cheek bones were prominent, and complexions were generally cadaverous. In fact, none of the features of a spiritualistic audience were wanting.

We had not the pleasure of the "lady's" acquaintance, and did not learn her name. She was not a Bloomer.

The poem which she recited was stated in the advertisement to be "Illustrative of Spiritualism." It was not—strange to say—the composition of spirits, but the lady's own production. She commenced by invoking the Muse, in real Homeric fashion. HOMER, however, had the advantage of her in genius. Indeed, much as we dislike to say it, the "lady's" divine afflatus was very minute. The "vision and the faculty divine" were not hers. She rolled her eyes in frenzy, but it was not the "fine frenzy" of the poet. We have seen something like it at Bloomingdale, and in the Lunatic Asylum at Blackwell's Island. Nowhere else.

The "peme" (forgive us, Mr. K. N. Pepper) was a recitative of individual experience. The lady told her audience that she > —— was Nature's happy child,

> And fairy forms around her pillow smiled.

But bitter experience came. She lost her parents, and "the blossom in her path, which, prattling, lisped her name," was taken from her—passed, as she said, very originally,

> —— unto that bourne,
> From which, alas, no traveler can return.

At this point, a gentleman near the door invited the lady to be kind enough to give him a little more strength of voice. She accordingly went at a high-sounding pitch into an unmetrical rhapsody, in which here and there a jingling rhyme stuck painfully out, reminding her hearers that it was not prose run mad. She "looked through the cloudy vista, to where smiled full fruition." She was "untrammeled by the creeds which bigots frame." Her "love-freighted bark had gone down and perished," but her soul was "unshackled by the fetters of superstition." She believed that

> God is with us in falling showers;
> His breath is in the opening flowers;

and

> Ages on ages first must roll,
> Ere we can hope to see the Whole.

With a great deal of blasphemy, such as SHELLEY delivered himself of in "Queen Mab," (only SHELLEY did write poetry,) there was more senseless rodomontade, and that, too, without any show of sequence or connection of subjects, than we can ever expect to listen to, except in a congregation of Spiritualists. When the "poem" was concluded, the lady announced that a collection would be taken up to defray expenses, and while the money-box was going round, she entertained the company with a song.

The Shipwrights' Banquet.

To the Editor of the New-York Daily Times:

In the DAILY TIMES of April 15, I find a report of the Shipwrights' Banquet, from which the following is a curious extract:

> "He proposed the first toast,
> The President of the United States,
> Which was drunk standing, and with cheers.
> The next toast was—
> The Queen of Great Britain and Ireland,
> Which was ordered to be drunk standing.
> The company rose and honored the toast with ironical laughter, one old gentleman very candidly observing, that 'it was rather a hard pill to swallow.'"

My emotions on reading this take the form of verse.

> When our great President was drunk,
> The cheers were most ecstatic,
> By full two hundred stalwart men
> Who built the Adriatic.
>
> But when the toast was England's Queen,
> A mother, wife and daughter,
> The TIMES' "Reporther" says 'twas met
> With mingled sneers and laughter.
>
> One "gentleman" of ancient years,
> Consumptive, sad and sallow,
> Acknowledged with some bitter tears,
> The pill was "hard to swallow."
>
> Can this be true? will native-born
> Americans allow it?
> Stand up, ye "stalwart artisans,"
> And boldly disavow it.

A VIRGINIAN.

Small-Pox.

The steamship Emeu, of the Cunard line, entered the port of Boston a short time since, and landed a ship-load of passengers; after which, she sailed for this port, and arrived on the 5th or 6th inst. She hailed from Liverpool, and while on her voyage to Boston, a case of small-pox broke out on board, which was sent on shore at Boston. Without being fumigated, or otherwise cleansed of the infection, she sailed for the City of New-York. Soon after she arrived, it was found that some of her crew had been taken with small-pox, which they contracted from the case sent on shore at Boston, and the authorities (of Jersey City) ordered the ship to be anchored off in the stream, and the small-pox cases of her crew to be sent to the Marine Hospital at Quarantine. The occurrence of these cases, and a knowledge of the same coming to the public ear, gave rise to some considerable excitement, and especially in the neighborhood of the wharf at which the Emeu was moored.

The Emeu did not stop at Quarantine, simply because the old quarantine law did not include her among the vessels proper to be examined by the [illegible]; and what is true of the Emeu, relative to the old law and declaring her subject to Quarantine, and to her bringing into port the plague of small-pox, is true of hundreds of other vessels during the Winter season.

For years past the City Inspector's report has shown that, during the Winter season, there has been an astonishing number of cases of small-pox in our City, and that they were unusually fatal. From this City it usually spreads into the country, until it numbers among its victims citizens of all parts of the State. Something should be done to put an end to the importation of small-pox. The new law will intercept this dreadful disease from foreign ports. All such vessels as can bring small-pox to us from abroad, will, under the new law, be compelled to stop at Quarantine, and there be freed from the infection, and those diseased will be sent to the Small-Pox Hospital.

Funeral of Mr. Joseph Curtis.

The funeral services of Mr. JOSEPH CURTIS were attended yesterday. The immediate friends of the family, the members of the Common Council and of the Board of Education, met at his late residence, where a prayer was offered. The body was then borne to All Souls' Church, by the following gentlemen: PETER COOPER, JAMES DEPEYSTER, LINUS W. STEVENS, WILLIAM C. BRYANT, S. S. RANDALL, ERASTUS C. BENEDICT, WM. H. NEILSON, ANDREW H. GREEN, DR. RAMSEY, and WM. B. MURPHY.

At the Church, a very large Congregation had gathered—every seat was filled, and the aisles were crowded. A solemn piece of music was given by the Organ. Rev. Dr. OSGOOD made the opening prayer. Rev. Dr. BELLOWS followed with a biographical sketch of the deceased, and a most happy analysis of his character. We have already furnished our readers with a brief notice of his humble, but most useful career, and must not here repeat it, although the particulars, as narrated by Dr. BELLOWS, were exceedingly interesting. As to his religious character, he himself furnished the clew when on his death-bed. "If anybody asks, my children," said he, "what your father's religious opinions were, tell them they may be found in the sixth chapter and the eighth verse of the Prophet Micah: 'He hath showed thee o man what is good. And what doth the Lord require of thee but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God.'" These words Dr. B. took as the text of his discourse upon this occasion. During the largest part of his life he had attended Friends' meeting with his wife—still a member—and his children. He, however, was never a member. About twenty years ago he united himself, not as a communicant, (which he never was,) but as a fellow-worshipper, with the congregation under Dr. DEWEY, and later with the congregation of Dr. BELLOWS. "Will you love one another?"—he said to his children when on his death-bed—"there is no heaven but love."

After the discourse and the benediction, opportunity was afforded to have a last look upon the features of the dead; after which the body, attended by a long procession, was borne to the cemetery in Second-avenue, near First-street, and there deposited.

The Late Richard Walsh.

A meeting of the friends of the late RICHARD WALSH was held at the Eagle Drill-Rooms, corner Chrystie and Delancy streets, on Monday evening, to make some provision for his destitute widow and family. After the transaction of some informal business, the meeting was adjourned to next Monday evening, at the same place, when a Treasurer will be appointed and collectors designated to procure donations. Mr. WALSH was formerly publisher of the Honest Truth, and subsequently Secretary of the Irish Aid Society. He was widely known.

Catholic Library Association.

The first public effort in favor of the establishment of a Catholic Library Association in New-York, was made last night, by a meeting at Hope Chapel, which was sufficiently large and respectable to afford fair ground for expecting a successful issue to the movement. Mr. COZANS briefly stated the purpose which the Committee, with whom the idea of a Catholic Library was originated, had in view. These objects, he said, were

1. The dissemination of Catholic and useful knowledge. 2. To forward the moral and intellectual advancement of its members. 3. To create among its members a spirit of harmony and good feeling, that will be conducive alike to their interests and pleasure. These to be attained by establishing a Library and Reading Room; and by Readings and Lectures, when practicable.

Mr. QUINN, the Secretary, read letters of apology from Dr. IVES and CHARLES O'CONOR.

Dr. O. A. BROWNSON was introduced amid prolonged applause. He advocated the claims of the infant institution to Catholic support, on the ground that it was eminently calculated to create and foster a Catholic public opinion.

Mr. JAS. A. MCMASTER, in the course of a brief address, stated that though in this City there were 300,000 baptized Catholics, there was not, outside their homes, a room twelve feet square specially set apart for the purpose, where they could meet in friendly intercourse and intellectual communion. And this was the more strange because the most illustrious members of the first rank in the legal, the medical, and all the learned professions, as well as of those engaged in commercial pursuits, were Catholics. That they were not negligent of their public duty as Catholics was sufficiently manifested in the magnificent temples which the religion and liberality of Catholics of all classes had reared on this island. The only thing which this Library Association required to secure its success, was a moderate beginning, which a little goodwill and a little money would certainly bring about.

Mr. RICHARD O'GORMAN spoke in favor of the objects of the association, basing his appeal on the dignity and worth of Catholicity in a social point of view. He wound up by a glowing tribute to the spirit of religious freedom which the church, no less than the primitive teachings of Christianity itself, recognized and cherished.

Flour—Now and Then, and the Bakers.

By a reference to our Market reports, and a comparison of the prices of the different qualities of Flour now with those which prevailed on the 1st of December last, our readers may perhaps be astonished, in view of the continued minuteness of their bakers' loaves, at the great fall which has taken place in that article. On the 1st of December, Ordinary State ranged from $9 25 to $9 31¼—now the quotation is $5 87½ to $6; Straight State, then, $9 31¼ to $9 37½—now, $6 to $6 12½; Fancy Ohio, then, $9 62½ to $9 75—now, $6 87½ to $6 75; Fancy Genesee, then, $9 56¼ to $9 75—now, $6 50 to $6 75; Extra Genesee, then, $10 to $11 50—now, $6 75 to $9 25;—and in the same proportion with all the other grades.

Then, sixpenny loaves were about as big as a decent biscuit—now, they are not a whit bigger. And we would like to know why not? We turn up all the reasons that occur to us, and not a decent one appears. Have bakers no eyes to see that flour is down? no ears to hear the demand for loaves to match this altered arrangement of affairs? no bowels of compassion for the poor, whose sixpences they will not take if crossed, or clipped, or worn? no hearts, no honor, no sense of propriety?

—Men who have wives, get a barrel of flour, and beg your wives to bake their own bread, and you shall have something worth eating, of a size to suit you, and a savor and relish that will make all bakers' bread hereafter taste sour in comparison.

Old England in Town.

There was a hearty, ruddy, full-cheeked crowd in at a neighboring bar-room last night. They were a set of Johnny Bulls just arrived by the ship London. The women were trim, and tidy and robust, bright eyed and blooming, going about waiting upon their lords and masters. They were all English peasants, coming here in search of home and home comforts and so many shillings a day. One sturdy fellow was invited up to the bar by somebody who entertained an interest in his well-being, and, unaccustomed to seeing whole bottles full of liquor, filled his glass all the way to the brim. He was immediately uproarious. It is a shabby thing this—"treating" of freshly arrived immigrants. But it was an interesting sight to see these people. They were so clean and good-humored, and congregated in such an odd place. At midnight they were still there.

Harbor Encroachments.

The Harbor-Encroachment Committee reassembled in this City yesterday and continued their labors. They have, to the present time, given their attention to an examination of the Harbor and the construction of exterior lines. Henceforth they will be engaged in preparing recommendations concerning filling up or enlarging piers within the exterior lines, rates for wharfage, the preparation of maps, the propriety of laying out a street on the permanent water line of Brooklyn, and the establishment of an East-River boundary line for New-York and for Kings and Queens Counties. They will give to those interested in these matters an opportunity of appearing before them in a few days.

Broadway is once more a moving panorama of [illegible]. The [illegible] slippery enough "to the right," has had a [illegible] legacy of dangerous [illegible] heaped upon it by the recent showers of April rain. A layer of mud on which the foot cannot rest firmly renders all progress longitudinal or latitudinal [illegible] for pedestrians exceedingly hazardous. The [illegible] cheek-bone of mother earth, which forms the pavement in the middle of the street, is [illegible] devout sons of clay with a singular warmth of affection, and as for the horses [illegible] length brought them to consider their downfall at least half a dozen times a day an inevitable [illegible], and they take it as a matter of course. It is shameful in this last age that human progress in the great thoroughfare of the Empire City, should be so slow and dangerous an affair.

Yesterday afternoon, the Aldermanic Committee on Streets, Alderman [illegible], Chairman, took a carriage-ride through a number of streets of the City. They got a fair view of the [illegible] stones, but of the paving-stones they saw [illegible] little.

The Councilmen's Committee, in their [illegible] looked carefully through [illegible] streets.

They are doing a good thing—[illegible] trees in the Park. Posterity will be much obliged.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

TO PERSONS WHO DRINK AT BARS AND HOTELS.

Since the introduction of my SCHIEDAM SCHNAPPS into the United States, a number of Liquor [illegible] in New-York have commenced putting up [illegible] Gin, and calling it Schnapps. [illegible] ly to my article—all others [illegible] tions on the public.

I understand a number of bar rooms in this City have the poisonous Gin for sale on account of the cheapness of the price—$2 50 a dozen—when pure [illegible] is worth by the pipe $1 60 a gallon. Look out for such [illegible].

NOW READY:

MRS. HENTZ'S GREAT WORK,
COURTSHIP AND MARRIAGE;
OR, THE JOYS AND SORROWS OF AMERICAN LIFE.
BY MRS. CAROLINE LEE HENTZ.

Author of "Ernest Linwood," "Aunt Patty's Scrap Bag," "The Planter's Northern Bride," "Linda," "Rena," &c. Complete in One Large Volume, Bound in Cloth, for One Dollar and Twenty-Five Cents; or in Two Volumes, Paper Cover, for One Dollar.

This work will be found, on perusal by all, to be one of the most exciting, interesting and popular works that has ever emanated from the American press. It is written in a charming style, and will impart to all a thrill of deep and exquisite pleasure. It is a work which the oldest and the youngest may alike read with profit. It abounds with the most beautiful scenic descriptions, and displays an intimate acquaintance with all phases of human character—all the characters being exceedingly well drawn.

It is a delightful book, full of incidents, oftentimes bold and startling, and describes the warm feelings of the Southerner in glowing colors. It will be found in plot, incident and management to be a superior work. In the whole range of elegant moral fiction there cannot be found anything of more inestimable value, or superior to this work, and it is a gem that will well repay a careful perusal.

Published and for sale by T. B. PETERSON, No. 102 Chestnut-st., Philadelphia.

FOR SALE.

FREE LANDS FOR SALE.—THE ILLINOIS CENTRAL RAILROAD COMPANY IS NOW PREPARED TO SELL OVER TWO MILLION OF ACRES OF FARMING LANDS [illegible]

These lands were granted by the Government to aid in the construction of this Railroad, and include some of the richest and most fertile prairies in the State, [illegible] other timber. The road extends from Chicago, on the northeast, to Cairo at the South, and from thence to Galena and Dunleith, in the northwest extreme of the State, and as all the lands lie within fifteen miles on each side of this road, ready and cheap means are afforded by it for transporting the products of the lands to any of those points and from thence to Eastern and Southern markets. Moreover, the rapid growth of flourishing towns and villages along the line, and the great increase in population by immigration, &c., afford a substantial and growing home demand for farm produce.

The soil is a dark, rich mould, from one to five feet in depth, is gently rolling and peculiarly fitted for grazing cattle and sheep, or the cultivation of wheat, Indian corn, &c.

Economy in cultivating and great productiveness are the well-known characteristics of Illinois lands. Trees are not required to be cut down, stumps grubbed, or stone picked off, as is generally the case in cultivating new land in the older States. The first crop of Indian corn, planted on the newly-broken sod, usually repays the cost of plowing and fencing.

Wheat sown on the newly-turned sod is sure to yield very large profits. A man with a plow and two yoke of oxen will break one and a half to two acres per day. Contracts can be made for breaking, ready for corn or wheat, at from $2 to $2 50 per acre. By judicious management, the land may be plowed and fenced the first, and under a high state of cultivation the second year.

Corn, grain, cattle, etc., will be forwarded at reasonable rates to Chicago, for the Eastern market, and to Cairo for the Southern. The larger yield on the cheap lands of Illinois over the high-priced lands in the Eastern and middle States is known to be much more than sufficient to pay the difference of transportation to the Eastern market.

Bituminous coal is mined at several points along the Road, and is a cheap and desirable fuel. It can be delivered at several points along the Road at $1 50 to $4 per ton; wood can be had at the same rates per cord.

Those who think of settling in Iowa or Minnesota should bear in mind that lands there, of any value, along the water courses and for many miles inland, have been disposed of, that for those located in the interior, there are no conveniences for transporting the produce to market, Railroads not having been introduced there. That to send the produce of these lands one or two hundred miles by wagon to market, would cost much more than the expense of cultivating them; and hence, Government lands thus situated, at $1 25 per acre, are not so good investments as the land of the Company at the prices fixed.

The same remarks hold good in relation to the lands in Kansas and Nebraska, for although vacant lands may be found nearer the water courses, the distance to market is far greater and every hundred miles the produce of those lands is carried either in wagons, or interrupted water communications, increases the expense of transportation, which must be borne by the settlers, in the reduced price of their products; and to that extent precisely are the incomes from their farms, and of course on their investments, annually and every year reduced.

The great fertility of the lands now offered for sale by this Company, and their consequent yield over those of the Eastern and Middle States, is much more than sufficient to pay the difference in the cost of transportation, especially in view of the facilities furnished by this road, and others with which it connects, the operations of which are not interrupted by the low water of Summer, or the frost of Winter.

PRICE AND TERMS OF PAYMENT.

The price will vary from $5 to $25, according to location, quality, &c. Contracts for deeds may be made during the year 1856, stipulating the purchase-money to be paid in five annual instalments. The first to become due in two years from the date of contract, and the others annually thereafter. The last payment will become due at the end of the sixth year from the date of the contract.

INTEREST WILL BE CHARGED AT ONLY THREE PER CENT. PER ANNUM.

As a security to the performance of the contract, the first two years' interest must be paid in advance, and it must be understood that at least one-tenth of the land purchased shall yearly be brought under cultivation. Longer credits, at 6 per cent. per annum, may be negotiated by special application. Twenty per cent. from the credit price will be deducted for cash. The Company's construction bonds will be received as such.

READY FRAMED FARM BUILDINGS, WHICH CAN BE SET UP IN A FEW DAYS, CAN BE OBTAINED FROM RESPONSIBLE PERSONS.

They will be 12 feet by 20 feet, divided into one living and three bedrooms, and will cost complete, set up on ground chosen anywhere along the Road, $150 in cash, exclusive of transportation. Larger buildings may be contracted for at proportionate rates. The Company will forward all the materials for such buildings over their road promptly.

Special arrangements with dealers can be made to supply those purchasing the Company's lands with fencing materials, agricultural tools, and an outfit of provisions in any quantity, at the lowest wholesale prices.

It is believed that the price, long credit, and low rate of interest, charged for these lands, will enable a man with a few hundred dollars in cash, and ordinary industry, to make himself independent before all the purchase money becomes due. In the meantime, the rapid settlement of the country will, probably, have increased their value four or fivefold. When required, an experienced person will accompany applicants, to give information and aid in selecting lands.

Circulars, containing numerous instances of successful farming, signed by respectable and well-known farmers living in the neighborhood of the Railroad lands, throughout the State—also, the cost of fencing, price of cattle, expense of harvesting, threshing, &c., by contract—or any other information—will be cheerfully given, on application, either personally or by letter, in English, French or German. Address to JOHN WILSON,
Land Commissioner of the Illinois Central R. R. Co.,
No. 52 Michigan-av., Chicago, Ill.

A BEAUTIFUL COUNTRY SEAT FOR SALE—Including furnished house, outbuildings and about 20 acres of land, at South Orange, N. J., about half a mile from the railroad depot, and about 12 miles from Jersey City. MEDICAL.

[illegible] WARREN, M. D.
Many years Surgeon to the Lock Hospital; Author of "The Cause and Cure," numerous plates, $1. Office No. 80 Walker-st., fourth door west of Broadway.

ATMOSPHERIC CHANGES OF THE SEASON

exert vast influence over the human system and condition; upon their recurrence all persons of plethoric habits, sufferers from scrofula, cutaneous eruptions, stubborn ulcers from an injudicious use of mercury, and in chronic constitutional disorders, should have resort to SANDS' SARSAPARILLA, the original and genuine article, so long celebrated for the cure of the above-named diseases, and all others arising from an impoverished, vitiated or inflamed condition of the blood or habits of the system. Prepared and sold by A. B. & D. SANDS, Druggists, No. 100 Fulton-st.

THE GREATEST MEDICAL DISCOVERY OF THE AGE.—Mr. KENNEDY, of Roxbury, has discovered in one of our common pasture weeds, a remedy that cures every kind of humor, from the worst Scrofula down to a common Pimple.

He has tried it in over 1,100 cases, and never failed, except in two cases, both thunder humor. He has now in his possession over 200 certificates of its virtue, all within 20 miles of Boston.

Two bottles are warranted to cure a nursing sore mouth.

One to three bottles will cure the worst kind of pimples on the face.

Two to three bottles will clear the system of boils.

Two bottles are warranted to cure the worst canker in the mouth or stomach.

Three to five bottles are warranted to cure the worst case of erysipelas.

One to two bottles are warranted to cure all humor in the eyes.

Two bottles are warranted to cure running of the ears and blotches among the hair.

Four to six bottles are warranted to cure corrupt and running ulcers.

One bottle will cure scaly eruption of the skin.

Two to three bottles are warranted to cure the worst case of ringworm.

Two to three bottles are warranted to cure the most desperate case of rheumatism.

Three to four bottles are warranted to cure the salt rheum.

Five to eight bottles will cure the worst case of scrofula.

A benefit is always experienced from the first bottle, and a perfect cure is warranted when the above quantity is taken.

Reader, I peddled over a thousand bottles of this in the vicinity of Boston. I know the effects of it in every case. So sure as water will extinguish fire, so sure will this cure humor. I never sold a bottle of it but that sold another; after a trial, it always speaks for itself. There are two things about this herb that appears to me surprising—first, that it grows in our pastures, in some places quite plentiful, and yet its value has never been known until I discovered it in 1846; second, that it should cure all kinds of humor.

In order to give some idea of the sudden rise and great popularity of the discovery, I will state that in April, 1853, I peddled it, and sold about six bottles per day. In April, 1854, I sold over a thousand bottles per day.

No change of diet ever necessary—eat the best you can get, and enough of it.

DIRECTIONS FOR USE.—Adults, one table spoonful per day; children over 8 years, dessert spoonful; children from 5 to 8 years, tea-spoonful. As no direction can be applicable to all constitutions, take sufficient to operate on the bowels twice a day.

Mr. KENNEDY gives personal attendance in bad cases of Scrofula.

REPRESENTATIVE IN AMERICA.
Dr. BARROW, No. 31 Greene-st., near Canal, New-York, specially appointed by the proprietor and patentee of TRIESEMAR—THE GREAT EUROPEAN DISCOVERY.—Protected by Royal Letters Patent of England, and secured by the seals of the École de Pharmacie de Paris, and the Imperial College of Medicine, Vienna.

TRIESEMAR No. 1—Is the remedy of general and local debility, loss of virile power, premature decay, and all the distressing consequences arising from early abuse, &c., would not become impaired, even in the decline of life, if the Triesemar were universally adopted; all physical impediments vanish like magic before its influence, thus rendering its use invaluable to those entering the marriage state.

TRIESEMAR No. 2—Completely and entirely eradicates all traces of those disorders which copavia and cubebs have so long been thought an antidote for, to the ruin of the health of a vast portion of the population.

TRIESEMAR No. 3—Is the great European remedy for that class of disorders which, unfortunately, the English physician treats with mercury, to the inevitable destruction of the patient's constitution, and which all the Sarsaparilla in the world cannot remove.

TRIESEMAR Nos. 1, 2 and 3—Are alike devoid of taste or smell, and all nauseating qualities. They may lay on the toilet table without their use being detected.

Sold in tin cases at $3 each, or four cases in one for $9, which saves $3; and in $27 cases, whereby there is a saving of $9; divided into separate doses, as administered by Valpeau, Lallemand, Roux, &c.

To be had, wholesale and retail, and forwarded immediately on receiving a remittance, to any part of the world, by H. A. BARROW, M. D., No. 31 Greene-st., near Canal, New-York. Attendance daily, from 11 A. M. till 2 P. M., and from 4 to 8 P. M., (Sundays excepted,) unless by previous appointment, No. 31 Greene-st., near Canal. Will remove, on the 1st of May next, to No 157 Prince-st.

$500 REWARD.—JEFFRIES' ANTIDOTE—A specific mixture for the cure of Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Strictures, and similar disorders. It makes a speedy cure, without the least restriction of diet, drink, exposure, or change in application to business. Our object is to notify where it can be had, and the proprietor challenges a single case of recent Gonorrhœa which the mixture will not cure, under a forfeiture of $500. Further—the disease cannot be contracted if a dose of the mixture is taken when exposed. Repeated experiments and long experience have proved that it will radically cure any case which can be produced. This desirable result is obtained in from two to ten days, and as it neither creates nausea nor offends the palate, and renders unnecessary any deviation in diet or interruption to usual pursuits, sound sleep or healthy digestion, the nuisance is thus removed as speedily as is consistent with the production of a thorough and permanent cure. Its ingredients are entirely vegetable, and no injurious effect, either constitutionally or locally, can be caused by its use. Price $1 per bottle. Agent, C. H. RING, No. 192 Broadway, corner of John-st., and corner Broadway and 14th-st.

DR. HUNTER'S NEW MEDICAL WORK, THE VADE MECUM, giving the London, Paris and Vienna treatment, 300 pages, full of colored plates. Among its contents is the anatomy of the sexual organs of the male and female, all their diseases and weaknesses, latest discoveries in reproduction; quacks, their receipts and specifics; nervous debility, local and general, from excess and indiscretion in youth. Price four shillings. To be had of Dr. HUNTER himself, No. 3 Division-st., New-York, long and favorably known to the public. He may be consulted gratis at his old-established office, where he has practiced in one branch of medicine for the last twenty-four years, and made more cures than any other man in the City, in many instances of persons considered incurable, some of which he has permission to refer to as heretofore. Charges moderate, and in all cases a cure guaranteed. Caution—My great remedy, HUNTER'S RED DROP, that cures the disease without drying its poison in the blood, can only be had as here; it makes a speedy cure, without the least restriction in diet, drink, exposure or change in application to business. One bottle will cure the most inveterate case. Many are cured in a few hours; it entirely supersedes the dangerous and indiscriminate use of Mercury, which too often causes the inevitable destruction of the constitution.

DR. HUNTER'S RED DROP CURES—When the treatment of other physicians and all other remedies fail. It is your only reliance for a thorough cure in certain diseases. No. 3 Division-st., the only place now so well known for the very many extraordinary cures it has performed, without diet, or hindrance from business, when all other remedies only drive the disease in the blood. $1 only. This secures the patient from secondary attacks, and is the only remedy on earth that does it. You will find this out by bitter experience, if you trust to any other medicine. It has cured thousands of cases that never would have been cured without it. Dr. HUNTER restores people to health daily, who have been almost ruined by mercury and caustics by the humbugs.

DR. LARMONT'S PARIS AND LONDON MEDICAL ADVISER AND MARRIAGE GUIDE—20th edition, 400 pages, 100 electrotyped pictures, cloth, $1 and 3 stamps. Among its contents is the anatomy of the sexual organs of the male and female, all their diseases and weaknesses; latest discoveries in reproduction; quacks, their recipes and specifics; nervous debility, local and general, from excess and indiscretion in youth. The author's Paris and London treatment, from 11 A. M. to 9 P. M., 42 Reade-st., corner of 290 Broadway, New-York. His book is also sold at 222 Broadway. We commend Dr. LARMONT to the afflicted.—Courrier des Etats Unis, Staats Zeitung, National Democrat, Day Book, Courier.

NO CHARGE UNLESS CURED.—Dr. JOHNSON, No. 16 Duane-st., (Chatham Bank Building,) may be consulted with confidence on all diseases requiring secrecy. His long experience of 24 years in this specialty of the profession enables him to treat successfully those who may have suffered from the malpractice of medical impostors, many of which are to be found in all large cities, but particularly in the City of New-York. Dr. J., being a graduate of N. Y. University, guarantees a cure in all cases undertaken. Hours from 8 A. M. to 8 P. M.

RICORD'S PRACTICE.—Dr. C. D. HAMMOND, formerly a pupil with Ricord, of Paris, and with the celebrated surgeons of this City, Drs. MOTT and CARNOCHAN, informs the public that he may be consulted for the cure of an important class of diseases, and for those of the lungs and throat, at his conveniently-located rooms, No. 516 Broadway, opposite the St. Nicholas Hotel. Office hours from 9 to 1, and from 5 to 9. Treatment also by letter, and remedies adapted to the case sent. Consultations en Français. C. D. HAMMOND, M. D.,
Physician, Consulting and Operative Surgeon.

LADIES' HOSPITAL.—Mrs. W. H. MAXWELL would inform the ladies that she has invented and patented a new and valuable apparatus as a back-strengthener, to assist ladies in their confinement. Philip R. Wilkins, Auctioneer.

HOUSEHOLD FURNITURE AT AUCTION.—PHILIP R. WILKINS will sell at auction on THURSDAY, April 17 at 10½ o'clock, at No. 245 West 31st-st., a general assortment of household furniture, consisting in part of parlor furniture in satin, old marquetrie furniture, of elegant design and elaborate finish. Paintings by Hogarth and Hepile, line, proof and mezzotint engravings. For further particulars see auction head in large papers.

SPLENDID SECOND-HAND FURNITURE.—The attention of those interested is respectfully solicited to the superior facilities presented by the subscriber to parties who may have furniture of a rich and costly description to be sold, but wish to retain the same in use up to the 1st of May. Such furniture if sent to our auction-rooms is generally so much injured for the want of space to arrange it properly for sale, that a great sacrifice is the inevitable consequence. The Central Salesrooms (formerly occupied as a Church) are fitted expressly for the purpose, and the arrangements are unequaled by any rooms in New-York. A call at the rooms on any regular sales day, (Friday,) will convince strangers that there is no better place to dispose of property of any kind at auction and none where a larger or more respectable audience can be gathered. As our buyers have confidence in our mode of doing business, and buy for their own use chiefly, the prices realized are generally far more than furniture brokers are willing or able to give. We pay the ferriage on all furniture sent to us from New-York.

JOSEPH HEGEMAN, Auctioneer.

GAS.

A resolution was adopted directing the Gas Company to lay mains and pipe in the Ninth Ward.

THE FIRE DEPARTMENT.

An ordinance was adopted directing the Firemen to elect a Chief and Assistant Engineers, on the last Monday in April, who shall hold their offices for two years.

Section 6 says that the term of office of the present Chief and Assistant Engineers shall expire on the second Monday of May, 1856.

Brooklyn Board of Education.

A special meeting of this Board was held yesterday evening, to hear the annual report of the Superintendent.

During the year 146 candidates were examined for Teachers in the Public Schools, and 51 of them were appointed. The examinations occupied 33 sessions. 12 females were sent to the Packer Institute. There are 40 grammar schools, 29 primaries, besides 6 grammar and 2 primaries for colored children. Total schools, 78. There are 25 male teachers and 297 female, making a total of 331. During the year the Superintendent has paid 648 occasional visits, an average of 11 to each school; he spent 68 consecutive week-days in examination of classes. The library embraces 29,805 volumes. There are 30 public school buildings, but the number of scholars attending is not given.

Burglary—Recovery of Goods.

On Saturday night, the Dry Goods Store of E. R. MATHER, corner of Fourth and South Fifth streets, Eastern District of Brooklyn, was robbed of about $1,000 worth of goods. Sunday afternoon three men in a wagon, were seen to stop in front of an unoccupied building at the corner of Flushing and Division avenues, by a man who had the property in charge, whose curiosity was excited to know what their business was, and upon approaching them they started off in great haste. He entered the building and there found a quantity of dry goods, and it was subsequently ascertained that they were the same as stolen the night previous from Mr. MATHER's store.

Brooklyn Dispensary.

During the month of March 524 patients were treated at this Dispensary for the following

DISEASES—Of children, 71; lungs, 64; skin and vaccination, 49; head and digestive organs, 85; females, 4; eye and ear, 49; surgery, 130. Of these 28 were males; 244 females. Nativity—Born in the United States, 121; in foreign countries, 403. 1,514 prescriptions were gratuitously dispensed.

Church of the Holy Trinity.

The sale of the pews in this church, at auction, commenced on Monday evening. There was a large attendance, and the sale was conducted with considerable animation. But few of the highest priced pews were sold, and those at a premium ranging as high as $65 on the assessed value.

Base Ball Club.

The following officers have been elected by the Club for the ensuing year:—President—SAMUEL GODWIN; Vice-President—GEORGE E. HOYT; Secretary—JOHN S. MORRELL; Treasurer—DANIEL GODWIN; Directors—E. A. WALTON, GEO. P. PAYSON, THOMAS S. DAKIN. They played their first game of the season last Saturday.

Overboard.

A sailor, named JAMES AGEN, fell overboard from the brig Gladiator, in the East River, near the foot of Main-street, Brooklyn, on Monday morning. He was rescued by Officers COLVERT and CRAFT, of the Second District Police.

Kings County Republican Club.

A regular meeting of this Club was held on Monday evening, when a constitution and by-laws were adopted. The attendance was quite large, and good feeling prevailed.

Fire in Flatbush.

At 7 o'clock Monday, the house near the County Buildings, known as the Cortelyou homestead, was destroyed by fire. Loss $2,000.

Accident.

MATHEW McCLOSKEY, of Elizabeth-street, New-York, fell at the corner of Elizabeth and Doughty streets, Brooklyn, Monday night, and broke his leg. He was intoxicated at the time. Officer COYLE, of the First District Police, took him to the City Hospital.

No Fight.

To the Editor of the New-York Daily Times:

SIR: I noticed in this morning's paper an account of a disgraceful fight between Engine Companies Nos. 6 and 11. I would state that at the time of the disturbance, No. 6 was in the house, the roll called, and many of the members gone home. The statement therefore was entirely unfounded.

A MEMBER OF ENGINE CO. NO. 6.

All of the officers elect are Democrats. The average majority of the Democratic City ticket last year was 30.

Police.

On Monday, in the Recorder's Court, Jersey City, a woman named MARY ANN HINSWORTH, of bad reputation, who has for some time past slept with her child in a hog pen, was committed to the County Jail as a vagrant for a term of three months. Her child was taken to the Almshouse.

SUSAN WATTS, a woman of bad character, was committed to the County Jail as a vagrant for three months.

C. H. NOYES, a boy, was sent to the City Prison for one day, on the charge of being drunk and disorderly in the street.

H. OLIN and H. T. FRAZIER, arrested on the charge of passing counterfeit bills on the Providence Bank, in New-York, pleaded guilty, and were sent back to New-York for trial.

Swindle.

A man, giving his name as BREWSTER, recently stopped a short time at the Philadelphia Hotel, Jersey City, and paid the balance of his bill, about $12, with a check upon a bank where he had no funds. His child was taken sick, and upon his going to a drug store with a prescription, he gave a check for $16, and received $5 75 in change. He requested them not to present the check that day, and he would call in the evening and cash it. He called in the evening with a forged check of $35, to which was signed the name of JOSEPH G. BOGG, with which he took up his own $16 check, and got $35 cash. He left for Philadelphia before the swindle was discovered.

Special Election.

The Jersey City Common Council has ordered a special election in the First Ward, to be held on Friday, the 25th instant, to elect an Alderman in place of Alderman GRIFFITHS, who has resigned.

Mr. Cass and the American Residents at Rome.

From the Boston Atlas.

We learn from reliable authority that Mr. LEWIS CASS, Jr., the American resident Minister at Rome, at no time very acceptable to his countrymen, has recently added not a little to his unpopularity by his singular proceedings in regard to a proposed celebration of the birthday of WASHINGTON. All the arrangements had been made for a magnificent fête in honor of the 22d of February. Everything was in readiness, even to the printing of the cards of invitation, when it was deemed expedient to abandon it, the entire responsibility of the failure being formally thrown upon Mr. Cass. The facts, as we learn them from a gentleman who was in Rome at the time, are as follows: Early arrangements had been made for the celebration by all the Americans present, with their invited guests. The festivities were to conclude with a ball. No opposition by the Government was anticipated, but early steps were taken to ascertain its willingness and to receive permission. Mr. CASS undertook the task of ascertaining the views of the Papal Government. This, however, he neglected to do until a late day, when, instead of seeing Cardinal ANTONELLI in person, he consulted only some of the sub-officials, and from them reported that the Government would be offended if there were dancing in Lent. He stated that the police would not interfere to interrupt or prevent the party, but that it would damage the standing of the American Minister. It was thereupon decided to abandon the whole affair, and a formal vote was passed censuring Mr. CASS, and throwing upon him the responsibility of the failure. As soon as the American Minister heard of this vote he waited upon Cardinal ANTONELLI, and was assured by him that the Roman Government had not the least objection to the proposed celebration. As soon as the knowledge of this reached the American residents a renewed attempt was made to proceed with the fête, but as Mr. CASS positively refused to allow the use of his name as one of the managers, the majority were unwilling to go on with the party, and it fell through. Subsequently a dinner party was proposed and successfully accomplished, to which, as a sense of their feeling towards Mr. CASS, it was agreed by general consent to give that individual no official invitation. He was privately invited by the gentleman who presided at the dinner party, but this invitation he had sense enough not to accept.

SUSPECTED FRAUDS AND INVESTIGATIONS.—There are rumors of a disagreeable outcome to the recent fugitive slave cases in this City, and the opinion is getting abroad that some people have done considerably "more than their duty" in the premises. The enormous cost of the proceeding has, it is said, startled the Secretary of the United States Treasury from his propriety, and a special agent from the department has arrived in the City, and is opening up what is thought to be, a pretty extensive mine of corruption. Stories are afloat of frauds—very barefaced frauds—by which some people expected to pocket large sums of money, upon the supposition that as Government was determined to do the thing up liberally, a few thousand more or less, would not be taken into account. We have heard that the Marshal of the Southern District of Ohio, who resides principally, we believe, at Washington, in the District of Columbia, has been sent for, in haste, by telegraph, and that, if he has not already arrived in this City, he is hourly expected; but whether he comes for the purpose of making arrests or the reverse, we have not been so happy as to learn.—Cincinnati Commercial.

THE SEARCH LAW—ITS CONSTITUTIONALITY TO BE TESTED.—The schooner Maryland, taken at Norfolk on account of the refusal of the Captain to submit to a search of his vessel under the inspection law, as already stated, was released on Friday, the agent in Norfolk having secured the payment of the fine of $500 to the State. She sailed on Saturday. The Alexandria Sentinel says that one of the coal and iron companies who have their dépôt in that city, and whose vessels are searched as they go out of the Potomac, intend to test the constitutionality of the new law at the next term of the Court.

FIRE IN THE CINCINNATI GAZETTE OFFICE.—The fire in this establishment is covered by an insurance of $10,000. The exact loss is not ascertained, as the damage to furniture, material, stock, &c., could not be readily estimated. Among other losses is the entire destruction of the April number of Moore's Western Lady's Book, an edition of about four thousand copies. We are assured by the proprietor that it will be supplied as soon as the work is done. The fire is supposed to be the work of an incendiary. The fire broke out at twenty minutes after six, and shortly after the hands had finished up and left.

IMPORTANT TO STREET DRUNKARDS.—The Rochester Union has it on reliable authority that Judge SELDEN has stated that the recent decisions against the Prohibitory act in no wise effect that portion which makes street drunkenness an offence punishable by fine or imprisonment. And he has further assured the police authorities that they can safely enforce that clause. We trust this is true, for the clause referred to is a salutary one and productive of good.

From the Boston papers we learn that as some workmen in the employ of Mr. W. C. CARLTON, No. 19 Beach-street, were in the act of filling a vessel from a carboy of nitric acid or aquafortis, the vessel was accidentally broken, spilling the contents on the floor. Instead of leaving the room, the workmen remained and attempted to absorb the fluid by throwing sawdust upon it. They soon became so affected by inhaling the noxious effluvia, that they were obliged to leave the room. They subsequently repaired to their homes, without making any special complaint, and nothing further was heard of the matter at Mr. CARLTON's shop until the following morning, when it was reported that two of the men were dead, and others had become seriously affected.

SHOCKING BRUTALITY.—We are informed that a few days since a young man who has been married but a few years, and residing in Frankfort, got "gloriously drunk," and abused his young wife in a brutal manner, knocking some of her teeth out of her mouth, and otherwise bruising her; but this did not satisfy him. On Monday night, or rather about 3 o'clock on Tuesday morning of this week, he returned home from a groggery drunk, and kicked her until he broke several of her ribs, and she is now in a dying state, if not already dead.—Little Falls Journal.

ALBANY EMIGRANTS FOR KANSAS.—The first Company of Kansas Emigrants, under the auspices of the New-York State Kansas Committee, will start for Kansas City to-morrow morning, at a quarter after seven o'clock. Their route will be via Suspension Bridge, Detroit, Chicago and St. Louis. A small party from Boston will arrive here this evening under direction of the New-England Emigrant Aid Company.—Evening Journal, April 15.

TUESDAY, April 15—3 P. M.

The leading drawers of Exchange put up their rates on London to-day to 109¾@109⅞, owing to the command which they have of the market, in the absence of any considerable supply of transient Bank bills. The business done was mainly at 109⅞ for Southern Bank signatures, 109¾@⅞ City drawn. Credits were settled at 109⅝. The rate on Paris firm at 5.17½. The leading Continental drawer supplied the demand at this figure, and will ship $250,000 or $300,000 in gold coin by the Asia to-morrow. Among the Stock people there was more activity in the demand for money. One or two of the large Banks called in part of their Stock loans. The regular mercantile offering for Discounts is scarcely equal to last week. The rates of paper with the Discount Brokers are the same. The Stock Exchange was under some excitement after the regular morning session, and the active speculatives fell off suddenly ½@1 ₩ cent. A sale of 2,000 shares Erie by a single operator, between the Boards, at 57@56⅛, caused several other Stocks to sympathize in the decline. Toledo and Cleveland gave way to 78 ex dividend, equal to 82 if sold in the morning, and Reading was done at 91¾. The total business of the day on the official list, it will be noticed was quite large, while the outside transactions, not registered, must have reached 3,000 or 4,000 shares. Illinois Centrals were firm at 88¼@88 ₩ cent. The sales of New-York Central were quite considerable at 92½@92¼ and finally at 92 ₩ cent. Southern Michigan and Rock Island both firm and ½ ₩ cent. dearer than on Thursday. Panama 105, buyer 60 days. There is a stronger market this week for Virginia and Missouri State Stocks. The recent legislation of both States was directed to the prompt payment of the half-yearly interest. In the case of Virginia, the tax list was greatly increased, and means taken by the issue of temporary Treasury notes to anticipate the collection of taxes. The practical effect has been to pay off certain moneys advanced to the State by the Banks, and to provide $800,000 extraordinary means in aid of the July interest. No sacrifice has been submitted to in this operation. The Treasury Notes bear 6 ₩ cent. interest and are receivable after September in payment of taxes. The Banks at Richmond, we understand, have taken the entire issue at par. There will be no further coupon or foreign stock made by the Commonwealth. The outstanding contracts of the State to the Railways are provided for in domestic inscription stock. Of the legislation of Missouri, we had occasion to speak a few days ago. The few parcels of Louisianas on this market have been taken at 92@93 ₩ cent. Tennessees are partially supplied at 96. Kentuckys are wanted for the Sinking Fund of the Commonwealth at par and interest. Ohios command 103¼ for the short loan of 1860. Indiana fives worth 84. Georgias, Illinois and Carolinas all scarce. Marylands, Massachusetts and Alabamas, not offered at all in this market. Indeed, with the exceptions of Missouris and Virginias, no considerable parcels of any of the State issues are offered below par, and these are attracting a more general demand, as the recent measures of legislation begin to be properly appreciated.

The weekly Bank Statement published this morning, excites remark on the increase of loans, as it did early last week. The increase comes from the new Park Bank, $814,000, the changes in the other Banks about balancing each other. To this subject, and the disappointment in the Erie earnings for March, are attributed the depression in the market for Stocks. The stiffness in Exchange also had something to do with it, although the shipment of Specie is not likely to be one-fourth as much as by the corresponding steamer last Spring, when $1,898,000 went out. The packet will take but few Stocks as a remittance. The Brokers for European buyers complain of extreme dullness, and especially is this the case with the Continental houses.

The holders of the protested indorsements of the Cleveland, Columbus and Cincinnati Railroad, present or represented in the City to-morrow, are called to meet at 3 o'clock to confer on the best means of prosecuting their claim upon the defaulting Company. Although the protest, deliberately suffered on the 1st inst., is an unfortunate affair in a public sense, affecting, from the previous high standing of the example, the good faith of the whole Railway interest, the Bondholders have as yet no reason to distrust the reimbursement of their money, principal and interest; the principal sooner, perhaps, than the Bond if promptly and honorably cared for on the 1st of April would have authorized. The legal remedies are neither few, nor confined to the single State of Ohio, nor yet to the corporation of the Cleveland, Columbus and Cincinnati Road, though the responsibility here is ample enough, if the Bondholders should elect to confine themselves to it, without bringing their action also against the Directors individually and the two or three Stockholders who have combined to stop payment by temporary injunction. These last mentioned gentlemen, we understand, take their case into the United States Court; a selection of tribunal which the holders of their dishonored indorsements ought not to object to, since Justice McLEAN presides on the Ohio Circuit and he has already adjudicated [illegible] the responsibility of Railway Corporations on contracts made by their officers and agents. A contract made by the President of the Indianapolis and Bellefontaine Road, without, as we have heard, the previous sanction of either Directors or Stockholders, was sustained by this authority, and perpetual injunction granted to prevent the violation of the contract by the alteration of gauge at the State line. It was because of this very decision, acquiesced in without appeal, by the Indianapolis and Cleveland Companies, who had attempted to break the contract that the present indorsements were made for the valuable consideration of a uniform gauge from Cleveland to Indianapolis. The Piqua Company, on their part, surrendered an advantage which the previous contract, affirmed by Judge McLEAN, gave them. A new contract, in other words, was entered into, and being such a contract as the statute law of Ohio and Indiana authorized, it will no doubt be ultimately affirmed and enforced as its predecessor was, if litigation be not arrested by other and wiser counsels than prevailed at Cleveland week before last.

The Board of Directors of the City Bank to-day made MOSES TAYLOR, Esq., their President, in place of the late GORHAM A. WORTH. The Commonwealth Fire Insurance Company have declared a half-yearly dividend of 6 ₩ cent. payable 1st May.

A letter from Harrisburg in the Commercial of this afternoon says of the Northeast Road:

"The bill supplementary to the act incorporating the Erie and Northeast Railroad Company has after considerable discussion finally passed the Senate, in such a shape as to have restored to it all the rights, privileges and franchises the Company held prior to the passage of the act of last session repealing their charter. They are, however, to subscribe the sum of $400,000 to the Erie and Pittsburg Railroad Company. It will, most probably, also pass the House."

[Translated Extract.]

NEW-YORK, Tuesday, April 15, 1856.

During the past week our Stock market has remained very quiet. For two days after our advices of the 7th inst., there was a general depression, but the market recovered and now most of the quotations in our Railroad Stock list show an advance, compared to those of last week, with some activity in one or two of them, and also in some of the State Stocks. The large figures of importations, as seen in our subjoined statement, and the gradual increase of the discount lines of our Banks, notwithstanding a decrease of Specie, has attracted some attention and caused the momentary depression above mentioned. The downward tendency of the market was of short duration, for money, although in active demand, is easily procured, and the large payments to be made in Specie by the Sub-Treasury in the first days of next June allay any serious fears concerning the metallic reserves of our Banks. At the close of the day there is a decline on a number of the Railroad shares, with more activity. The absence of European demand for investment contributes in a great measure to the present want of animation. The opening of the Lake Erie, Wabash and Toledo Railroad, 167 miles from Toledo to Logansport, being now in operation, has created some speculation in the shares of the Cleveland and Toledo Road. Money is in good demand at 7 ₩ cent. for loans on call. Business paper is offered from 7@10 ₩ cent., according to length and class. Exchanges somewhat firmer. London 109¼@109½. Paris 5.17½@5.18¾.

Money Circular for England.

[Extract.]

The Stock market since the issue of our last report of 1st inst., has presented no important new features. Its chief characteristics are a greater or less degree of dullness in nearly all descriptions of securities, and a general steadiness of prices. The orders for investment, both for foreign and domestic account, are very limited, and the disposition to act with caution, at the present moment prevents speculative operations to any material extent, in anticipation either of an advance or a decline. The ease in money matters enables holders to carry their stocks without difficulty, and the supply is consequently not in excess of the demand. The continued increase of loans by the banks in this City, based upon the large accumulation of deposits, while the specie balances are kept comparatively low by the export of gold to Europe, and the absorption of coin in the payment of duties on imports, create some apprehension that a curtailment sufficiently rapid to produce inconvenience may shortly be found necessary. This apprehension is, however, not so general as to have any apparent influence on the stock market. It is generally expected that the receipts of gold from California and the interior, and from the payments by the Treasury, will be ample to meet the drain to all quarters during the Summer. The expansion of the last few weeks is partly the consequence of the opening of a new Bank, with a capital of $1,800,000, and it is supposed to be principally in the discount line. The present aggregate of stock loans is probably not unusually large. State stocks are generally firm. The annexed quotations show an improvement of ½ ₩ cent. in Pennsylvania 5s; ¼ in Kentucky 6s; 2 in Louisiana 6s, and 1 in California 7s. Sales of Ohio 6s, 1860, have been made at 103¼, and of 1875s, at 112; North Carolinas at 98, and Tennessees at 96. The transactions in Virginia and Missouri 6s have been quite large. The former are steady at about 93¾, and the latter have advanced 1 per cent.

NEW-YORK, Tuesday, April 15, 1856.

Since our advices of 7th inst., the stock market has remained very inactive, without marked change on our previous quotations. During the first days of the week the tendency was downward, but it afterward improved, attention being chiefly turned to Western Railroad shares. But to-day the market is again lower. The receipts of the leading railroads have been larger since the opening of the month, and must, no doubt, continue so for the coming season. Money is in better demand. On call, 7 ₩ ct.; first-class paper, 7@9; names less current, 8@10. Exchanges firm; sterling active at 109¾@109⅞, and Paris at 5.17½.
